Moscow Ends State Of War With East And West Germany

Viewed As Move Against West's Security Setup

MOSCOW, Jan. 25 (AP)—The Soviet Union announced today the end of its state of war with both East and West Germany, but said it would retain the "right and obligation" claimed under four-power agreement concerning Germany as a whole.

The announcement was made to a suddenly summoned news conference by press chief Leonid Ilyichev of the Soviet Foreign Office. It was in the form of a decree of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament).

The move was viewed here as a new and powerful move against Western defense arrangements, probably aimed directly at the West Germans to obstruct their ratification of the Paris agreements that would arm them.

Adenauer Summons Cabinet

(In Bonn, a West German government statement said "the Russians are very late in taking this move because the Western Allies ended their state of war with Germany three years ago."

(West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Cabinet called a special meeting for Wednesday to consider the Moscow announcement. Adenauer, ending a vacation in the Black Forest, will not be present but will attend a second meeting on the subject when he returns to Bonn Friday.

(A Bonn government official said the "Soviets are really turning on the heat to defeat West German rearmament." Erich Ollenhauer, leader of the opposition Socialists, called the Soviet step a "new Russian attempt eventually to attain East-West talks on Germany" and said it "must be studied closely."

Blockade Threat Seen

(In Berlin, Western Allied officials said the Moscow declaration contains a threat of a new blockade of Berlin. An American official said a "sovereign" East Germany might do what the Russians once tried unsuccessfully—shut off West Berlin's supply lines.)

The Soviet Union recognizes only the government of Communist-ruled East Germany. Ten days ago however, the Russians made what amounted to an offer to recognize the West German government at Bonn in return for rejection of the Paris agreements concerning rearmament. Previously the Soviet Union had warned bluntly that ratification of those agreements would make the division of Germany permanent, would increase the chance of war, and would require the Communist nations of the East under Moscow's leadership to seek out counter-measures.

New Dress For Tiny Survivor Of Fire

Nancy Swank, 2, sits on the counter of a Plainfield, N. J., store as Mrs. Richard P. Dyckman, co-chairman of a Red Cross family disaster unit, holds a new dress for the child. Nancy was saved from a fire early yesterday when her grandmother tossed her and a younger brother from a third-floor apartment window to patrolmen. At left is Joe Bess Swank, a sister of Nancy who was also rescued. The grandmother, Mrs. Oscar Augustine, Berwick, Pa., visiting the Swank family, and one other person died in the fire. The little girls' mother was injured when she leaped from a third floor window.

Committee OKs GI School Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—The House Veterans Affairs Committee today stamped its unanimous okay on a bill to let servicemen keep on accumulating GI schooling rights provided they're in service by the end of this month.

Chairman Teague (D-Tex), author of the measure benefitting some 1,400,000 servicemen, announced he would seek quick House passage. Senate action isn't expected until next month—but since the bill is retroactive, that delay wouldn't make any difference to men who meet the Jan. 31 deadline.

Pentagon spokesmen made it plain today that men who want to join the armed forces by Jan. 31 must step quickly.

Testifying before the House committee, they said the average enlistment process takes about a week. But recruiting officers have been told to "work around the clock" if need be to speed up things, they said, and there was still some opportunity for young men to beat the deadline.

The Army and Navy were listed as the only services still signing on recruits this month, the Air Force and Marine Corps having filled their January quotas.

U.S., Panama Sign Pact

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Panama and the United States today signed a new treaty governing U.S. activities in the Panama Canal zone. One major provision of the treaty increases the U.S. annual rental payment to Panama from $430,000 to $1,930,000.

Churchill Spurns Laborite Idea He Confer With Reds

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill firmly brushed aside today Laborite demands that he initiate direct talks with Communist leaders on the Far Eastern situation and Germany.

Labor party members raised the two issues immediately after the British Parliament reconvened from a Christmas recess.

They first demanded that Churchill meet Russia's Premier Georgi Malenkov for talks on the Far East situation.

Sees No Favorable Results

Churchill replied that he did not "conceive that a meeting of this character between me and Mr. Malenkov would be likely to yield favorable results at the present time."

The opposition members then asked that Churchill propose talks with the Soviet government on unifying Germany in light of Russia's declaration Jan. 15, which Laborite speakers said offered general elections in East and West Germany with international inspection.

Basic British Policy

Churchill said his government's policy on this question was to seek a four-power conference "at a time when it seems likely to yield genuine results." He said those results could not be achieved "before ratification of the London and Paris agreements" on rearming West Germany.

The 80-year-old Prime Minister reminded the Laborites that his statement was the basic position of British policy as set forth in notes to the Soviet government.

Twins Weigh In At Over 20 Pounds, Probable Record

CLEVELAND, Jan. 25 (AP)—Mrs. Fedor Krylow, 34, gave birth today to twins with a combined weight of 20 pounds, 4½ ounces, which is probably a world record.

Dr. Allen Barnes, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Western Reserve University, said medical literature through 1950 showed no heavier twin birth and that he had heard of none heavier since.

The births were by Caesarian section at City Hospital. The boy baby weighed 11 pounds, 5 ounces and the girl weighed 8 pound, 15½ ounces.

L. A. Welcomes Gen. MacArthur

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25 (AP)—General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, flying through fog to keep an important date, his 75th birthday anniversary, landed tonight at Los Angeles International Airport to be greeted by an official reception.

The general, his smiling wife and three other members of his party arrived at 6:15 p.m., just five minutes before the airport was closed because of the dense fog.

Before leaving New York, the general declined to comment on President Eisenhower's request for congressional authority to defend Formosa. He said he would not discuss the President's message in his Los Angeles speeches.

The former supreme commander in the Far East is scheduled to make two informal speeches tomorrow morning and afternoon and a formal address at 10 p.m. Thursday.

Army, McCarthy Reach Stalemate On Belsky Case

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—The Army and Sen. McCarthy reached another stalemate today, this time about Pfc. Marvin Belsky.

Belsky is a physician, assigned to an Army hospital at Waltham, Mass. He refused to tell the senator during a Senate investigation whether he was a Communist or had recruited others for the party while on duty.

Separate releases by McCarthy and the Army showed:

On Jan. 22, Secretary of the Army Stevens wrote the senator that a McCarthy letter of Jan. 13 gave the impression that Belsky "may have committed subversive acts."

Stevens said an Army investigation "does not disclose such evidence" and "you or your committee staff should furnish to the Department of the Army without delay any facts in your possession to support any inferences about Belsky."

Stevens said Belsky is due for an honorable discharge Feb. 5.

McCarthy replied:

"In view of the search which the Army made in an attempt to find and punish the officer who gave us the resume of one FBI report and information as to a great number of others . . . I obviously could not give you the names of any individuals who gave us information in confidence.

"You say Belsky is not now in sensitive work. In case you are not aware of the fact, this is to inform you that he consistently comes in contact with individuals working at the secret Lincoln radar project. I trust this is not your definition of a nonsensitive position."

Senators Report On Study Of Why U.N. Failed In Korea

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP) — A Senate subcommittee reported today on its study of why the United Nations failed to gain a decisive victory in Korea, and suggested the reasons be kept in mind in developing Formosa policy.

The report from the Senate Internal Security subcommittee said that five senior military commanders in the Korean War all believe "possible subversion, wishful thinking, European orientation and allied pressure denied them victory."

The unanimous report was based on testimony taken from the Army, Navy and air officers, all now retired, at public hearings between last August and December.

The witnesses were Gen. Mark Clark, Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Lt. Gen. Edmond M. Almond and Adm. Charles T. Joy, all of whom held top command post in the Korean War theater.

The subcommittee said testimony of all five showed they believe that victory in Korea was "possible and desirable" and that the action required to achieve victory "would not have resulted in World War III."

Also, the subcommittee said, the former military commanders believe that "political considerations were permitted to overrule military necessities" and that "failure to win in Korea has jeopardized our position in the Far East."

The subcommittee recommended that its report and record of hearings "be brought at once to the attention" of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees now considering President Eisenhower's request for congressional backing of his policy to fight if necessary to defend Formosa and the nearby Pescadores Islands.

Russians Fail To Cast Usual Pitch For China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Jan. 25 (AP)—The Soviet Union, for some unannounced reason, failed today to make its usual demand for a seat for Red China as the U.N. Trusteeship Council opened its 15th semi-annual session.

Soviet Delegate Vasily F. Grubyakov skipped the customary denunciation of the Chinese Nationalists and pitch for the Communists.

This surprised some delegates, particularly in view of the growing tension over Formosa and President Eisenhower's and Premier Chou En-lai's statements yesterday on the matter. They guessed Grubyakov might bring up the subject later.

Chinese War In Uneasy Lull; Refugees Land

Nationalist Officials Consider Problems Of Quitting Tachens

TAIPEH, Jan. 26 (Wednesday) (INS)—Chiang Kai-shek's Formosa government decided today to give up the invasion-threatened Tachen islands off the Red China mainland.

The momentous decision to abandon the Tachens was reached at an emergency cabinet meeting called to discuss President Eisenhower's redeployment plan for the defense of Formosa.

TAIPEH, Formosa, Jan. 25 (AP)—A lull settled over the Chinese civil war front today as Nationalist officials presumably wrestled with the problem of evacuating the Tachens under the guns of the Reds.

The first dribble of refugees from the Tachens, 200 miles north of Formosa, arrived at the port of Keelung near Taipeh, possibly foreshadowing the withdrawal of the islands' garrison under the wing of the U.S. 7th Fleet.

There were 193 refugees, including 18 sick and wounded Nationalist soldiers and widows and orphans of men who fell in the defense of Yikiangshan, an island eight miles north of the Tachens which was seized by the Reds last week.

Reds Show Nervousness

While they sailed from the Tachens in two Nationalist destroyers, on the final leg they passed through waters protected by the 7th Fleet.

(Peiping radio, showing nervousness over the 7th Fleet movements, referred to the arrival of three more U.S. carriers in Formosan waters and charged the fleet was armed with atomic bombs.

(A broadcast heard in Tokyo said that "United States intrigues for the so-called cease-fire through the United Nations good offices is an utter deceit to cover up new war provocations."

(This was an echo of Premier Chou En-lai's declaration of the previous day that Red China would liberate Formosa, a cease-fire was unacceptable, and the U.S. 7th Fleet "must" quit Formosan waters.)

Formosa Conferences

There was no report of action along the tense Red coast and the Nationalist offshore islands save the routine patrol of Nationalist planes, but there were rounds of conferences on Formosa.

Rear Adm. Frederick N. Kivette, who commands the Formosa Strait patrol unit of the 7th Fleet, arrived at the South Formosan port of Kaohsiung on his flagship Salisbury Sound from Hong Kong. He is expected here shortly.

Vice Adm. Alfred M. Pride, 7th Fleet commander, remained in Taipeh but was expected to rejoin the fleet soon.

Kin Of Red China Captives May Be Denied Passports

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—The State Department was reported today to be inclined toward rejection of passport applications made by relatives who want to accept an invitation to visit Americans imprisoned in Red China.

The latest reason: The tense Formosan situation.

A qualified informant who asked not to be identified said that as long as shooting is going on along the Chinese coast he doubted whether the department would risk granting permission to travel to the area.

This view was made known after the State Department disclosed that three more relatives have asked how to apply for passports for a trip to Communist China. Two other inquiries were received yesterday. Press officer Henry Suydam declined to release th names of the inquirers.

Red China's Premier Chou En-lai announced recently that relatives of 15 airmen and two civilian Army employes held in China would be permitted to visit them if they wished.

American officials feel the Communists would collect a big propaganda dividend if American citizens took advantage of the Red "visiting hours".

Another reason the government is not encouraging the visits is that the United States has no diplomatic relations with Communist China and no means of protecting citizens who venture into the country.

Costa Rica Celebrates As Nicaragua Interns Last Of Rebel Forces

People Cheer, Sirens Blare As 2-Week-Old Revolt Comes To End

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Jan. 25 (AP) — Nicaragua announced today that all of Costa Rica's remaining rebels have crossed the frontier and been interned by the Nicaraguan government. Costa Ricans welcomed the end of their two-week-old rebellion with screaming sirens and cheering throngs.

In Managua, Nicaragua's Foreign Minister Oscar Sevilla Sacasa announced the rebels' internment, as barriers to the abolished neutral zone between that country and Costa Rica were dropped and Loyalist troops were ordered into the zone to hunt out rebel holdouts.

Sevilla Sacasa made his disclosure in a telephone call to the Organization of American States peace commission here. He said more than 250 rebels had been disarmed as OAS observers looked on.

Immediately after the news was passed along, the siren atop the pro-government newspaper La Republica blared out in salute, and excited crowds rushed to its bulletin board. Cheers went up as those in the van spelled out the news that the rebellion, which started Jan. 11, appeared to be definitely ended.

Major fighting stopped last Friday, but the government said about 200 rebels were pocketed in the buffer zone set up to reduce mounting friction between Costa Rica and Nicaragua.

President Jose Figueres accused his old enemy, Nicaragua's President Anastasio Somoza, of supporting the rebellion, but Somoza denied this.

Mexico's Luis Quintanilla, chairman of the OAS five-nation peace group, received the telephone call from Sevilla Sacasa. The commission planned to take off for Washington to place before the OAS a request by Figueres for concrete action in the Costa Rican-Nicaraguan tension.

In Washington, Uruguay's Jose Mora, president of the OAS council, said the internment of the rebels "is good news since it means the end of a threat of a clash" between Costa Rican forces pursuing them and 500 Nicaraguan National Guardsmen mobilizing across the border.

Asked if the rebels were acting at the invitation of the Nicaraguan government, Mora said he did not know. He added his only information was they were crossing into Nicaragua and were being taken into custody by Nicaraguan authorities.

D.C. Firemen Battle Blaze In Big Store

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP) — All off-duty firemen were called to work tonight as 22 fire companies battled a nearly block-long blaze in a department store on 7th St. NW.

Two unidentified firemen were overcome by smoke and removed to local hospitals as flames churned through the Henry Kaufman, Inc., department and clothing store. The store occupies most of the block between N and O sts. NW.

The fire apparently was still out of control almost two hours after the first alarm was sounded. About 45 pieces of equipment—including some from volunteer companies from nearby Maryland and Virginia—responded to the total of five alarms sounded.

Flames forced firemen to back equipment away from the blazing store and pour tons of water on the 2 and 4-story building from ladders and aerial fire towers.

Dense smoke covered the entire area near the store — a business district — and made the firemen's work that more difficult.

Brownell Urges Congress, Judge Pay Increases

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Congress was asked today to remedy a "rather critical" situation by raising the pay of federal judges.

Congress at the same time ought to raise its own salary scale, Atty. Gen. Brownell told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee.

Brownell opened testimony on pay legislation for judges and legislators. Although there have been some expressions of reluctance, and similar moves in the recent past have collapsed, many congressmen have spoken optimistically this session of boosting their salaries.

Ike Says Boost Overdue

President Eisenhower declared two weeks ago an increase was "long overdue" for both members of Congress and the judiciary. They now receive $15,000 a year.

One senator, Dirksen (R-Ill) admonished the subcommittee today against "timidity" in voting an increase. He said he recognized the suggestion has provoked "hostility in the country at times" but remarked:

"I'm going to be a candidate perhaps in 1956 and anybody can get a crack at me if he wants to."

If he were turned out of office after supporting what he considered an adequate congressional salary, Dirksen said, "I will cheerfully abide the result."

"Shocking" Disparity

Brownell told the subcommittee the disparity was "shocking" in some instances between the salary of federal and better compensated local and state judges.

Whereas the President has mentioned no figures, the attorney general proposed raises ranging from $12,500 to $14,500 for judges and of $12,500 for senators and representatives. Similar increases had been recommended by a commission established by Eisenhower and Congress in 1953.

War Hero Swaps Lieutenant's Bars For Stripes Of GI

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—Jake William Lindsey, a Medal of Honor winner, today traded in his second lieutenant's gold bars for old familiar master sergeant's stripes.

"I'm just a sergeant at heart," said Lindsay, 33, who has been in the Army since 1940 except for a brief period after World War II.

"I just think I can do a better job in the Army as a sergeant," he added. "I talk like a sergeant. If you are an officer, that kind of talk don't go with recruits in the new Army."

He was commissioned a second lieutenant at Fort Benning, Ga., in 1952, and has been serving in Germany. Before that he was with the paratroopers in Korea. He decided he would be more comfortable as a master sergeant, his old rank. He resigned his commission, then enlisted.

Atom Clock More Accurate Than Earth's Daily Rotation

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—A new atomic clock can measure time more accurately than any device now known, Columbia University physicists said today.

It could usher in "atomic standard time" rather than present sun standard time by which you'd get up, go to work, or go to parties.

For it's afar better timepiece than the earth's rotation, the basis of sun time or present standard time.

The earth's rotation can vary about one second every three years. The atomic clock would be "off" only about one second every 300 years, said Prof. Charles H. Townes, the inventor and executive officer of Columbia's Physics Department.

One use foreseen for it is to measure how much our spinning earth may be slowing down, and how much it varies in the time—24 hours—needed for one complete rotation.

The device also can amplify microwave radio signals, keep radio and TV transmitters on their frequencies more accurately, help navigators, and aid the study of mysterious radio signals coming from outer space, Prof. Townes said.

The device is named the Maser, which means microwave amplification by stimulated emission of radiation.

As an atomic clock, it produces vibrations of 24 billion cycles per second directly from radiation of tiny bits of energy from ammonia molecules. The vibrations are almost perfectly constant, giving the more accurate measure of passage of time.

Eisenhower's Save-Formosa Plan Endorsed

Senate Committee Approval Predicted Before Noon Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—In a swift and extraordinary display of unity, the House voted 409-3 today to empower President Eisenhower to wage war if necessary to save Formosa.

The emphasis was all on speed and heavy bipartisan backing behind a resolution which members acknowledged carried both high hopes of peace and a grave risk of war.

Eisenhower termed the House action on his urgent request a sign of "remarkable unity in the interest of the nation's security."

Now it is up to the Senate to act. The vote may come Thursday or Friday.

For eight hours, the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committee met in joint session today on the resolution. The session ended without a vote, but Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Foreign Relations Committee predicted the resolution would receive committee approval before noon tomorrow.

Substitute Hinted

George said Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), a member of the Armed Services Committee, had advised him that he might offer a substitute for the entire presidential resolution when the two committees meet again tomorrow.

Two Republicans, Reps. Siler of Kentucky and Sheehan of Illinois, and a single Democrat, Barden of North Carolina, refused to go along with Eisenhower's bid to declare America's determination to fight, if need be, to keep Red China from conquering the Chinese Nationalist bastion of Formosa and the nearby Pescadores Islands.

In the abbreviated debate leading up to the vote in a tense, hushed chamber, only the lone voice of Rep. Fulton (R-Pa) cried out that the resolution goes too far. In the end, Fulton wound up voting for it.

The resolution puts almost solid House support behind Eisenhower's plan to try to halt the Red Chinese before they strike, by holding over them the threat that the big guns and air power of the U.S. 7th Fleet will hit an invading force wherever it may be massing—even on the Chinese mainland.

Greater Risk In No Action

It calls, too, for the American armada to redeploy Chinese Nationalist troops scattered over numerous small islands off the mainland. This could mean, for example, evacuation of the Tachen Islands, 200 miles north of Formosa.

Under the House hung a grim awareness that the situation can mean war, if the Chinese Reds follow through on their repeatedly announced aim of "liberating" Formosa. But member after member said the greater risk lay in no action at all.

Rep. Holifield (D-Calif) called the resolution a "contingency declaration of war." While he accused Eisenhower of political "duplicity" on the issue, he said "we cannot afford to do other than go along" for the sake of "presenting a united front to the Communist world."

Several Democrats, Speaker Rayburn among them, contended the Constitution already gives the President all the authority he asked of Congress.

Paraguay Says Revolt Crushed

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Jan. 25 (AP)—A plot to overthrow President Gen. Alfredo Stroessner has been discovered and crushed, the government announced today. The country was reported calm.

The ringleader was identified as Dr. Eulogio Estigarribia, former head of the Colorado party from which he recently was expelled. The government charged he was aided by some civilians, retired army officers, two officials of the military academy and a group of cadets in the academy's graduating class.

At least some of these were reported under arrest.

Stroessner, 41, emerged as the dominant figure in Paraguayan politics last May when, as commander in chief of the country's armed forces, he led a revolt against President Federico Chaves.

As the candidate of the Colorado party—the only political party permitted to function in this nation of 1,200,000—Stroessner was elected president last July 11 and assumed office Aug. 15.

The subcommittee said testimony of all five showed they believe that victory in Korea was "possible and desirable" and that the action required to achieve victory "would not have resulted in World War III."

Also, the subcommittee said, the former military commanders believe that "political considerations were permitted to overrule military necessities" and that "failure to win in Korea has jeopardized our position in the Far East."

The subcommittee recommended that its report and record of hearings "be brought at once to the attention" of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees now considering President Eisenhower's request for congressional backing of his policy to fight if necessary to defend Formosa and the nearby Pescadores Islands.

Russians Fail To Cast Usual Pitch For China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Jan. 25 (AP)—The Soviet Union, for some unannounced reason, failed today to make its usual demand for a seat for Red China as the U.N. Trusteeship Council opened its 15th semi-annual session.

Soviet Delegate Vasily F. Grubyakov skipped the customary denunciation of the Chinese Nationalists and pitch for the Communists.

This surprised some delegates, particularly in view of the growing tension over Formosa and President Eisenhower's and Premier Chou En-lai's statements yesterday on the matter. They guessed Grubyakov might bring up the subject later.

Chinese War In Uneasy Lull; Refugees Land

Nationalist Officials Consider Problems Of Quitting Tachens

TAIPEH, Jan. 26 (Wednesday) (INS)—Chiang Kai-shek's Formosa government decided today to give up the invasion-threatened Tachen islands off the Red China mainland.

The momentous decision to abandon the Tachens was reached at an emergency cabinet meeting called to discuss President Eisenhower's redeployment plan for the defense of Formosa.

TAIPEH, Formosa, Jan. 25 (AP)—A lull settled over the Chinese civil war front today as Nationalist officials presumably wrestled with the problem of evacuating the Tachens under the guns of the Reds.

The first dribble of refugees from the Tachens, 200 miles north of Formosa, arrived at the port of Keelung near Taipeh, possibly foreshadowing the withdrawal of the islands' garrison under the wing of the U.S. 7th Fleet.

There were 193 refugees, including 18 sick and wounded Nationalist soldiers and widows and orphans of men who fell in the defense of Yikiangshan, an island eight miles north of the Tachens which was seized by the Reds last week.

Reds Show Nervousness

While they sailed from the Tachens in two Nationalist destroyers, on the final leg they passed through waters protected by the 7th Fleet.

(Peiping radio, showing nervousness over the 7th Fleet movements, referred to the arrival of three more U.S. carriers in Formosan waters and charged the fleet was armed with atomic bombs.

(A broadcast heard in Tokyo said that "United States intrigues for the so-called cease-fire through the United Nations good offices is an utter deceit to cover up new war provocations."

(This was an echo of Premier Chou En-lai's declaration of the previous day that Red China would liberate Formosa, a cease-fire was unacceptable, and the U.S. 7th Fleet "must" quit Formosan waters.)

Formosa Conferences

There was no report of action along the tense Red coast and the Nationalist offshore islands save the routine patrol of Nationalist planes, but there were rounds of conferences on Formosa.

Rear Adm. Frederick N. Kivette, who commands the Formosa Strait patrol unit of the 7th Fleet, arrived at the South Formosan port of Kaohsiung on his flagship Salisbury Sound from Hong Kong. He is expected here shortly.

Vice Adm. Alfred M. Pride, 7th Fleet commander, remained in Taipeh but was expected to rejoin the fleet soon.

Kin Of Red China Captives May Be Denied Passports

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—The State Department was reported today to be inclined toward rejection of passport applications made by relatives who want to accept an invitation to visit Americans imprisoned in Red China.

The latest reason: The tense Formosan situation.

A qualified informant who asked not to be identified said that as long as shooting is going on along the Chinese coast he doubted whether the department would risk granting permission to travel to the area.

This view was made known after the State Department disclosed that three more relatives have asked how to apply for passports for a trip to Communist China. Two other inquiries were received yesterday. Press officer Henry Suydam declined to release th names of the inquirers.

Red China's Premier Chou En-lai announced recently that relatives of 15 airmen and two civilian Army employes held in China would be permitted to visit them if they wished.

American officials feel the Communists would collect a big propaganda dividend if American citizens took advantage of the Red "visiting hours".

Another reason the government is not encouraging the visits is that the United States has no diplomatic relations with Communist China and no means of protecting citizens who venture into the country.

Costa Rica Celebrates As Nicaragua Interns Last Of Rebel Forces

People Cheer, Sirens Blare As 2-Week-Old Revolt Comes To End

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Jan. 25 (AP) — Nicaragua announced today that all of Costa Rica's remaining rebels have crossed the frontier and been interned by the Nicaraguan government. Costa Ricans welcomed the end of their two-week-old rebellion with screaming sirens and cheering throngs.

In Managua, Nicaragua's Foreign Minister Oscar Sevilla Sacasa announced the rebels' internment, as barriers to the abolished neutral zone between that country and Costa Rica were dropped and Loyalist troops were ordered into the zone to hunt out rebel holdouts.

Sevilla Sacasa made his disclosure in a telephone call to the Organization of American States peace commission here. He said more than 250 rebels had been disarmed as OAS observers looked on.

Immediately after the news was passed along, the siren atop the pro-government newspaper La Republica blared out in salute, and excited crowds rushed to its bulletin board. Cheers went up as those in the van spelled out the news that the rebellion, which started Jan. 11, appeared to be definitely ended.

Major fighting stopped last Friday, but the government said about 200 rebels were pocketed in the buffer zone set up to reduce mounting friction between Costa Rica and Nicaragua.

President Jose Figueres accused his old enemy, Nicaragua's President Anastasio Somoza, of supporting the rebellion, but Somoza denied this.

Mexico's Luis Quintanilla, chairman of the OAS five-nation peace group, received the telephone call from Sevilla Sacasa. The commission planned to take off for Washington to place before the OAS a request by Figueres for concrete action in the Costa Rican-Nicaraguan tension.

In Washington, Uruguay's Jose Mora, president of the OAS council, said the internment of the rebels "is good news since it means the end of a threat of a clash" between Costa Rican forces pursuing them and 500 Nicaraguan National Guardsmen mobilizing across the border.

Asked if the rebels were acting at the invitation of the Nicaraguan government, Mora said he did not know. He added his only information was they were crossing into Nicaragua and were being taken into custody by Nicaraguan authorities.

D.C. Firemen Battle Blaze In Big Store

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP) — All off-duty firemen were called to work tonight as 22 fire companies battled a nearly block-long blaze in a department store on 7th St. NW.

Two unidentified firemen were overcome by smoke and removed to local hospitals as flames churned through the Henry Kaufman, Inc., department and clothing store. The store occupies most of the block between N and O sts. NW.

The fire apparently was still out of control almost two hours after the first alarm was sounded. About 45 pieces of equipment—including some from volunteer companies from nearby Maryland and Virginia—responded to the total of five alarms sounded.

Flames forced firemen to back equipment away from the blazing store and pour tons of water on the 2 and 4-story building from ladders and aerial fire towers.

Dense smoke covered the entire area near the store — a business district — and made the firemen's work that more difficult.

Brownell Urges Congress, Judge Pay Increases

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Congress was asked today to remedy a "rather critical" situation by raising the pay of federal judges.

Congress at the same time ought to raise its own salary scale, Atty. Gen. Brownell told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee.

Brownell opened testimony on pay legislation for judges and legislators. Although there have been some expressions of reluctance, and similar moves in the recent past have collapsed, many congressmen have spoken optimistically this session of boosting their salaries.

Ike Says Boost Overdue

President Eisenhower declared two weeks ago an increase was "long overdue" for both members of Congress and the judiciary. They now receive $15,000 a year.

One senator, Dirksen (R-Ill) admonished the subcommittee today against "timidity" in voting an increase. He said he recognized the suggestion has provoked "hostility in the country at times" but remarked:

"I'm going to be a candidate perhaps in 1956 and anybody can get a crack at me if he wants to."

If he were turned out of office after supporting what he considered an adequate congressional salary, Dirksen said, "I will cheerfully abide the result."

"Shocking" Disparity

Brownell told the subcommittee the disparity was "shocking" in some instances between the salary of federal and better compensated local and state judges.

Whereas the President has mentioned no figures, the attorney general proposed raises ranging from $12,500 to $14,500 for judges and of $12,500 for senators and representatives. Similar increases had been recommended by a commission established by Eisenhower and Congress in 1953.

War Hero Swaps Lieutenant's Bars For Stripes Of GI

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—Jake William Lindsey, a Medal of Honor winner, today traded in his second lieutenant's gold bars for old familiar master sergeant's stripes.

"I'm just a sergeant at heart," said Lindsay, 33, who has been in the Army since 1940 except for a brief period after World War II.

"I just think I can do a better job in the Army as a sergeant," he added. "I talk like a sergeant. If you are an officer, that kind of talk don't go with recruits in the new Army."

He was commissioned a second lieutenant at Fort Benning, Ga., in 1952, and has been serving in Germany. Before that he was with the paratroopers in Korea. He decided he would be more comfortable as a master sergeant, his old rank. He resigned his commission, then enlisted.

Atom Clock More Accurate Than Earth's Daily Rotation

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—A new atomic clock can measure time more accurately than any device now known, Columbia University physicists said today.

It could usher in "atomic standard time" rather than present sun standard time by which you'd get up, go to work, or go to parties.

For it's afar better timepiece than the earth's rotation, the basis of sun time or present standard time.

The earth's rotation can vary about one second every three years. The atomic clock would be "off" only about one second every 300 years, said Prof. Charles H. Townes, the inventor and executive officer of Columbia's Physics Department.

One use foreseen for it is to measure how much our spinning earth may be slowing down, and how much it varies in the time—24 hours—needed for one complete rotation.

The device also can amplify microwave radio signals, keep radio and TV transmitters on their frequencies more accurately, help navigators, and aid the study of mysterious radio signals coming from outer space, Prof. Townes said.

The device is named the Maser, which means microwave amplification by stimulated emission of radiation.

As an atomic clock, it produces vibrations of 24 billion cycles per second directly from radiation of tiny bits of energy from ammonia molecules. The vibrations are almost perfectly constant, giving the more accurate measure of passage of time.

Eisenhower's Save-Formosa Plan Endorsed

Senate Committee Approval Predicted Before Noon Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—In a swift and extraordinary display of unity, the House voted 409-3 today to empower President Eisenhower to wage war if necessary to save Formosa.

The emphasis was all on speed and heavy bipartisan backing behind a resolution which members acknowledged carried both high hopes of peace and a grave risk of war.

Eisenhower termed the House action on his urgent request a sign of "remarkable unity in the interest of the nation's security."

Now it is up to the Senate to act. The vote may come Thursday or Friday.

For eight hours, the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committee met in joint session today on the resolution. The session ended without a vote, but Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Foreign Relations Committee predicted the resolution would receive committee approval before noon tomorrow.

Substitute Hinted

George said Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), a member of the Armed Services Committee, had advised him that he might offer a substitute for the entire presidential resolution when the two committees meet again tomorrow.

Two Republicans, Reps. Siler of Kentucky and Sheehan of Illinois, and a single Democrat, Barden of North Carolina, refused to go along with Eisenhower's bid to declare America's determination to fight, if need be, to keep Red China from conquering the Chinese Nationalist bastion of Formosa and the nearby Pescadores Islands.

In the abbreviated debate leading up to the vote in a tense, hushed chamber, only the lone voice of Rep. Fulton (R-Pa) cried out that the resolution goes too far. In the end, Fulton wound up voting for it.

The resolution puts almost solid House support behind Eisenhower's plan to try to halt the Red Chinese before they strike, by holding over them the threat that the big guns and air power of the U.S. 7th Fleet will hit an invading force wherever it may be massing—even on the Chinese mainland.

Greater Risk In No Action

It calls, too, for the American armada to redeploy Chinese Nationalist troops scattered over numerous small islands off the mainland. This could mean, for example, evacuation of the Tachen Islands, 200 miles north of Formosa.

Under the House hung a grim awareness that the situation can mean war, if the Chinese Reds follow through on their repeatedly announced aim of "liberating" Formosa. But member after member said the greater risk lay in no action at all.

Rep. Holifield (D-Calif) called the resolution a "contingency declaration of war." While he accused Eisenhower of political "duplicity" on the issue, he said "we cannot afford to do other than go along" for the sake of "presenting a united front to the Communist world."

Several Democrats, Speaker Rayburn among them, contended the Constitution already gives the President all the authority he asked of Congress.

Paraguay Says Revolt Crushed

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Jan. 25 (AP)—A plot to overthrow President Gen. Alfredo Stroessner has been discovered and crushed, the government announced today. The country was reported calm.

The ringleader was identified as Dr. Eulogio Estigarribia, former head of the Colorado party from which he recently was expelled. The government charged he was aided by some civilians, retired army officers, two officials of the military academy and a group of cadets in the academy's graduating class.

At least some of these were reported under arrest.

Stroessner, 41, emerged as the dominant figure in Paraguayan politics last May when, as commander in chief of the country's armed forces, he led a revolt against President Federico Chaves.

As the candidate of the Colorado party—the only political party permitted to function in this nation of 1,200,000—Stroessner was elected president last July 11 and assumed office Aug. 15.

Elkins Says U. Of Md. Still Fully Accredited

Steps Taken To Meet Report Criticism Listed

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Jan. 25 (AP)—The University of Maryland's new president, emphasizing he does not intend to "destroy athletics," ticked off today a list of steps being taken to meet criticisms of a recent evaluation report on all of the institution's operations.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins made the disclosures in a 90-minute press conference called to dispel what he described as "a great deal of misunderstanding" resulting from publication of the report.

The 46-year-old president, who came to Maryland from Texas Western College and was inaugurated last Thursday, said the university had received many calls from students and parents anxiously asking whether it was still fully accredited.

"It is," he declared.

Elkins and faculty aides reviewed the five main criticisms and said these are some of the things being done about them:

1. Overemphasis on intercollegiate athletics—more scholarships will be awarded to non-athletes, bringing the number into closer relationship with the number of those given athletes. All entrance and academic requirements, which are in the process of being raised, will apply to all students.

2. Inadequacies of the School of Medicine and University Hospital—funds have been requested or already granted to begin planning of a new medical library; raise the staff and teaching wage structure; expand operating rooms, obstetrics, ophthamology, recovery room, X-ray and research facilities, and strengthen the Department of Preventive Medicine and Rehabilitation.

3. Inadequate main library — a budget request of about $2,200,000 has been approved by the governor and soon will be submitted to the Legislature. If approved, said Elkins, this will put the university "well on our way to adequate library space for a number of years to come."

4. Too-highly centralized administration of the university, and

5. Lack of faculty participation in its educational policies — a committee has been at work for several months and in about two more months will have completed a faculty organization program. This program, said Elkins, should "answer both criticisms."

Budget Director Orders Federal Business Survey

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Budget Director Rowland R. Hughes today ordered every government department and agency to examine its business activities and see which can be "reasonably ended."

Hughes' memo to all concerned was in line with the Eisenhower administration's announced policy to take the federal government out of commerce in many fields ranging from manufacture of rubber to repair work on typewriters.

The order called for an inventory of all commercial activities of the government, such as repair and business services, transportation, communications, and wholseale and retail trade.

In addition, it requested "evaluation" of government manufacturing enterprises. After government agencies have drawn up a complete list of their commercial activities, Hughes said, they will be asked to evaluate them.

In both cases, Hughes directed, "each agency is urged to discontinue such activities unless, as shown by the evaluation, it would not be in the public interest" to shift to private business.

The budget director called for the report on commercial activities by April 15, and the evaluation of manufacturing by July 15.

French Wine Lovers Get Cheering News

PARIS, Jan. 25 (AP)—Wine lovers worrying about what happened to their bottled stock in cellars flooded by the Seine and other French rivers got cheering news today.

An expert came up with the opinion champagne will not be affected and some of the other wines will pull through the crisis with flavor intact.

On the other hand, this authority expected some rare vintages to suffer from the cooling waters: "After all, water never really went well with wine." And labels may be washed off the bottles. Relabeling is supposed to be bad for old wines.

The flooded rivers are slowly settling to normal.

105-Pound Woman Mother Of Triplets

NEWARK, N.J., Jan. 25 (AP)—A tiny 5-foot-1 former secretary, weighing a mere 105 pounds, gave birth to triplets within two minutes early today.

"Just what I hoped for," said Mrs. Julie Becker, 31, when they told her she had given birth to two girls and a boy.

The babies—her first born—were delivered by Caesarian section at St. Michael's Hospital. They were reported doing nicely, though the mother was not feeling too well yet.

'Right-To-Work' Bill Appears In Assembly

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 25 (AP)—A long-expected "right-to-work" bill, outlawing the union shop in Maryland, finally made its appearance in the state Legislature tonight.

Mimeographed copies of the proposed measure were being distributed by the Maryland Right-to-Work Committee, which said it has found sponsors in both houses of the Legislature but refused to disclose their names. The president of the committee is Edward P. Colwill, Baltimore contractor.

Maryland labor unions had already launched a campaign against such legislation in the Assembly with the thought that it would be coming.

West Va. House Passes Women's Jury Resolution

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 25 (AP)—The House of Delegates approved, today, 94-3, a measure calling for a vote of West Virginia's citizens on permitting women to serve on juries.

The joint resolution now goes to the Senate. A two-thirds vote of the elected members of both houses is required to submit the constitutional amendment to the voters.

It calls for a referendum at the 1956 general election on adding to the constitution a provision that all persons, regardless of sex, may serve on petit, grand and coroner's juries, if otherwise qualified.

Del. Drewry (D-McDowell) one of the two women members of the House, observed in a brief speech on behalf of the measure that West Virginia at present is one of only six states barring women from jury service.

The House also approved on a voice vote a resolution memorializing Congress to provide federal funds to help states in the Ohio River Compact in financing sewerage facilities.

The Senate, meanwhile, held one of the shortest meetings of the 52nd Legislature. That chamber was in session for only seven minutes before adjourning until tomorrow. The House worked for about 40 minutes on its routine business.

U. S. Steel Boosts Dividend On Stock

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—United States Steel Corp. today boosted its dividend on common stock from 75 cents to $1 a share, its first common stock dividend increase in four years.

Board Chairman Benjamin F. Fairless also anounced that the directors had approved a two-for-one stock split, subject to approval by the shareholders at their annual meeting May 2.

The action of the directors of the world's biggest steel producer was a well kept financial secret. Wall Street, judging by the unexciting performance of U. S. Steel common, on the New York Stock Exchange today, had no inkling of the important news break. The stock closed at $72.50 a share, up 50 cents from the previous close with 27,500 shares changing hands.

"The board believes that the proposed change will result in a wider distribution of the stock and make it more readily available for investment purposes," Fairless said.

If the stockholders approve the proposal to change each share of stock into two shares, the presently authorized 45 million shares would be increased to 90 million.

Steel common, on the New York Stock Exchange today, had no inkling of the important news break. The stock closed at $72.50 a share, up 50 cents from the previous close with 27,500 shares changing hands.

"The board believes that the proposed change will result in a wider distribution of the stock and make it more readily available for investment purposes," Fairless said.

If the stockholders approve the proposal to change each share of stock into two shares, the presently authorized 45 million shares would be increased to 90 million.

Bill To Bar Trucks From New Expressway Survives First Test

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 25 (AP)—A revived move to keep trucks off all of the new Baltimore-Washington Expressway rode out its first serious test of the 1955 Legislature today and was set up by the House for passage.

The delegates voted 67-47 to adopt a favorable report on the measure by Del. Robinson (D-Balto 4th) after it had barely squeezed through a committee 16-14.

Del. Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges) leader of the unsuccessful floor fight to kill the bill, said he would try again when it comes up for final passage, probably tomorrow. He would need to pick up only six votes since passage requires a constitutional majority of 62 votes.

A similar measure passed the House in 1953 but died in the Senate.

The House Ways and Means Committee heard one hour and 15 minutes of arguments principally by opponents, before reporting out the bill which would ban trucks for the first time from a Maryland-built highway.

Robinson argued that trucks could continue to use U.S. 1, the heavily-travelled Baltimore - Washington Boulevard, and give Maryland motorists one stretch of road where they can drive "without frayed nerves from competition with great and huge trucks" over every inch of the route.

The federal government now bans trucks from the 19 4 mile stretch of the scenic parkway which it operates. Robinson's bill would do the same thing for the remaining 12 miles to the Baltimore City line.

Wilkinson protested the move would kill many businesses on U. S. 1 by draining off its automobile traffic and said he objected to any bill "which denies any person the right to use any State road."

Thomas E. Widerman of the Maryland Motor Truck Assn. had told the committee hearing earlier that truckers paid for 34 per cent of the cost of the expressway and should be entitled to use it. He said it was necessary for expeditious movement to and from Baltimore harbor, and that the city had redesigned truck routes to include the freeway.

Walter F. Kendall, truck engineer for Baltimore City on the staff of Traffic Director Henry Barnes, said this was true, that the city had been diverting traffic to the freeway to ease congestion along the Baltimore-Washington Boulevard and that Robinson's bill would complicate the problem.

The Senate put off its only potential piece of interesting business today when it postponed for the fourth time action on Gov. McKeldin's veto of municipal authority to set speed limits. It was rescheduled for consideration on Thursday.

Sen. Goldstein announced the presidents of St. John's Western Maryland and Washington colleges had agreed to meet with him next Monday afternoon to discuss his request for reports on their accrediting status.

Dr. Lowell J. Reed, president of Johns Hopkins University, from which Goldsteir also requested a report, is out of town until Sunday.

Goldstein's requests for reports from the four institutions followed receipt by the Legislature of a similar evaluation made of the University of Maryland.

Sen. Northrup (D-Montgomery) chairman of a subcommittee studying establishment of an independent authority to build and operate a proposed toll expressway, announced his group will go to New Jersey and Pennsylvania next week to study the set-ups there.

The trip will be made Feb. 3-4. It is proposed that the independent authority take charge of a proposed expressway between Baltimore and the Pennsylvania border and any subsequent toll roads built in Maryland.

Misadventures Thwart Bandits

POCOMOKE CITY, Md., Jan. 25 (AP)—Four Norfolk Negroes were in custody today after an attempted jewelry store robbery frustrated by a series of misadventures.

Two gunmen entered the Thompson jewelry store late yesterday. One herded O. L. Thompson and his wife into a back room and started to tie them up while the other rifled the safe and cash register.

A customer entered and the man in the front of the store fled. The other gunman untied Mrs. Thompson, told her to get rid of the customer and return or he'd shoot her husband. She did.

The bandit was tying Mrs. Thompson up again when another customer came in and they had to go through the whole thing again.

Again Mrs. Thompson returned to the back room. Again the gunman started to tie her hands. Again the front door opened. Another customer.

The man gave up. He left without a cent, although on one of her trips Mrs. Thompson had emptied the cash register and brought the money into the back room.

The four men were taken into custody by Virginia State Police at Little Creek, Va., at the end of a ferry run from Kiptopeake, Va.

When the Erie canal was first built it was only four feet deep along much of its length.

Hotel Is Evacuated During Baltimore Fire

BALTIMORE, Jan. 25 (AP)—A six-alarm fire in downtown Baltimore swept through two adjoining buildings early today, forced 120 guests in a nearby hotel from their rooms, and tied up traffic at one of the city's busiest corners for hours.

The fire broke out about 2:30 and apparently originated in the basement of a night club in the 300 block of West Baltimore street. Leaping up an elevator shaft, it spread quickly and burned out of control for more than four hours.

Heavy smoke from the fire forced the evacuation of guests in the New Howard Hotel.

Murder And Suicide

BELTSVILLE, Md., Jan. 25 (AP)—A 48-year-old truck driver today killed his wife, then reloaded an ancient shotgun and took his own life.

The deaths of Walter D. Edwards, employed at the Agriculture Department Research Center, and his wife, Alma, 36, were listed as "murder-suicide" by Dr. John T. Maloney, deputy medical examiner for Prince Georges County.

Man, 68, Injured In Bridge Plunge

BALTIMORE, Jan. 25 (AP)—Despite the efforts of two passersby, 68-year-old Hamore V. Marquette jumped from a bridge today and was critically injured when he landed on the rocks of Herring Run 25 feet below.

St. Joseph's Hospital reported he had fractures of both legs plus head and face injuries.

Mrs. Jennie Mancuso said she saw Marquette standing on the rail of the bridge as she drove by. She stopped and pleaded with him several minutes.

"My nerves are so bad," she quoted him.

Roadside Zoning Law

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 25 (AP)—The Washington County Commissioners today agreed to ask the General Assembly to enact a roadside zoning law for the county.

W. Lee Elgin, president of the commissioners, said such an act would enable the board to put residential, commercial and industrial designations on property fronting roads in the county.

Elgin said such designations are necessary because the suburban areas around Hagerstown and other municipalities in the county are growing so fast.

"There is a danger of depreciating values if a junk yard can set up in business across the road from a residential development," he explained.

Science Confirms Children Today Grow Bigger Faster

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Scientists reported recently what parents have suspected all along: Children grow bigger faster than they used to.

A 14-year-old boy of today in the Detroit area is almost six inches taller and 31 pounds heavier than a 14-year-old Boston boy in 1877.

If you think that's because easterners are a puny lot, then look at this: A 9-year-old Detroit boy of today is almost 4 inches taller than a 9-year-old Milwaukee boy of 1881. He's almost 19 pounds heavier, too.

To come closer to the present: A 15-year-old boy measured in Hagerstown, Md., in 1937 is almost three inches shorter, and 19 pounds lighter, than the Detroit 15-year-old of today.

Girls? They may not like to admit it, but the same thing is happening to them, too.

These statistics are part of a study headed by Dr. W. Edgar Martin of the Office of Education in cooperation with the University of Michigan and the National School Service Institute.

Companies that make school equipment and are members of the service institute footed the bill.

Dr. Martin's conclusion:

As a result of the study, changes may be needed not only in school desks and chairs, but also in the height and spacing of "work surfaces on laboratory and shop benches, library and storage shelves, sinks, toilets and toilet partitions, showers, drinking fountains, clothes hangers and playground equipment."

Martin doesn't know why youngsters are growing so rapidly. He said a lot of reasons—better diet, decrease in communicable diseases and favorable climate—have been suggested. All he knows is, it's happening, at least with 3,318 children in elementary and secondary schools in southern Michigan.

Although the statistics can't be automatically accepted as a national average, Martin says these youngsters have a surprisingly varied background.

While 2,486 were born either in Michigan or in neighboring states, the rest came from widely scattered areas—468 had moved in from the South, for example and 19 had been born abroad. A number of races were represented, including 2,908 whites, 390 negroes, and a few Orientals.

One aside for those who may have a little lefthander in the house: The study shows you're far from alone, with 84.5 per cent completely righthanded, 7.8 per cent completely lefthanded and the rest open minded about what the report calls their "handedness." They do some things with the right hand, other things with their left hand, and the heck with it.

392 Mile-An-Hour Wind Recorded Over Philadelphia

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—The Weather Bureau reported yesterday that winds registered 392 miles an hour in Philadelphia yesterday. A spokesman said that's probably a record for the United States.

Strong as it was, the big blow didn't flip off a hat. It was 20,000 feet up, in what the experts call a jet stream.

The Philadelphia weather station was said to have clocked the furious wind at 11 a.m. EST yesterday with rawinsonde equipment—a balloon with reflecting device and transmitter. Four hours later it was still racing from the southwest at a 35,000-foot speed of 337 miles an hour.

Of the 392 m.p.h. recording, the spokesman here said, "As far as we know, this may be the fastest wind ever to occur over the United States." He said it clearly was part of a jet stream, a meandering flow of air sometimes 100 miles long and anywhere up to 200 miles wide.

Drought Forces State Farmers To Haul Water

BALTIMORE, Jan. 25 (AP) — A meteorologist said today that the water shortage in central Maryland has reached the point where wells are going dry forcing farmers to buy and haul water.

"Only those who have deep wells are holding their own," said George N. Brancato, chief meteorologist for the U. S. Weather Bureau here. He said the shortage was particularly bad for farms and homes north and northwest of Baltimore, which are situated 250 to 300 feet above sea level.

Meanwhile geologists report that the drought has depleted the water table in six central counties by an average of three feet. At a test well in Montgomery County, the level dropped 11 feet last year, said Claire A. Richardson of the United States Geological Survey.

The 18 testing wells in Harford, Howard, Baltimore, Carroll, Frederick and Montgomery counties showed an average net decline for the year of three feet.

However, Miss Richardson said the trend represents no general menace. "Rocks of this area are such that a lot of water cannot be stored in them," she said.

The picture is much brighter in other sections of the State. In Southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore where artesian sources provide water, there is little or no trouble.

Western Maryland has about four feet more water than last year, Miss Richardson said. She attributed the rise in the three western counties to "a terrific amount of rain during Hurricane Hazel."

In the Baltimore industrial area where pumping has a direct affect on the water table, a negligible decline of .39 of a foot was measured last year.

Anne Arundel County showed an average three-foot decline in the water table.

Sheriff To Install Electric Razors

MINEOLA, N. Y., Jan. 25 (AP)—Sheriff H. Alfred Vollmer said today he plans to install electric razors for his 180-odd prisoners.

Vollmer said maybe a dozen of the razors should take care of the Nassau County jail's hirsute growth.

He said he thinks his jail will be the first in the country to offer such an accommodation.

Vollmer's plan was prompted by a prisoner's attempted suicide this week with a razor blade. Jail officials couldn't say how he got it.

The sheriff said electric razors would eliminate one of the chores of prison guard everywhere — standing over a prisoner while he shaves to make sure the blade is returned.

Doctors In Two Cities Diagnose Cancer Via TV

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP) — In history's first test of its kind, two doctors in different cities concurred via color television recently in diagnosing a breast cancer in a woman.

As the patient, identified only as "a lovely 46-year-old woman," lay anesthetized on an operating table in Philadelphia, a pathologist there microscopically examined a piece of test tissue removed from her right breast.

Then, doctors in Philadelphia, Washington and Baltimore watched and heard him over a three-way closed TV circuit, he gave his definite opinion that the tissue was cancerous. But he asked the view of a pathologist watching the whole thing from Baltimore.

The latter, without hesitation, also voiced his opinion the tissue was cancerous—and then the surgeons in Philadelphia went ahead with the operation, although this was not seen on TV.

Science Confirms Children Today Grow Bigger Faster

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Scientists reported recently what parents have suspected all along: Children grow bigger faster than they used to.

A 14-year-old boy of today in the Detroit area is almost six inches taller and 31 pounds heavier than a 14-year-old Boston boy in 1877.

If you think that's because easterners are a puny lot, then look at this: A 9-year-old Detroit boy of today is almost 4 inches taller than a 9-year-old Milwaukee boy of 1881. He's almost 19 pounds heavier, too.

To come closer to the present: A 15-year-old boy measured in Hagerstown, Md., in 1937 is almost three inches shorter, and 19 pounds lighter, than the Detroit 15-year-old of today.

Girls? They may not like to admit it, but the same thing is happening to them, too.

These statistics are part of a study headed by Dr. W. Edgar Martin of the Office of Education in cooperation with the University of Michigan and the National School Service Institute.

Companies that make school equipment and are members of the service institute footed the bill.

Dr. Martin's conclusion:

As a result of the study, changes may be needed not only in school desks and chairs, but also in the height and spacing of "work surfaces on laboratory and shop benches, library and storage shelves, sinks, toilets and toilet partitions, showers, drinking fountains, clothes hangers and playground equipment."

Martin doesn't know why youngsters are growing so rapidly. He said a lot of reasons—better diet, decrease in communicable diseases and favorable climate—have been suggested. All he knows is, it's happening, at least with 3,318 children in elementary and secondary schools in southern Michigan.

Although the statistics can't be automatically accepted as a national average, Martin says these youngsters have a surprisingly varied background.

While 2,486 were born either in Michigan or in neighboring states, the rest came from widely scattered areas—468 had moved in from the South, for example and 19 had been born abroad. A number of races were represented, including 2,908 whites, 390 negroes, and a few Orientals.

One aside for those who may have a little lefthander in the house: The study shows you're far from alone, with 84.5 per cent completely righthanded, 7.8 per cent completely lefthanded and the rest open minded about what the report calls their "handedness." They do some things with the right hand, other things with their left hand, and the heck with it.

392 Mile-An-Hour Wind Recorded Over Philadelphia

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—The Weather Bureau reported yesterday that winds registered 392 miles an hour in Philadelphia yesterday. A spokesman said that's probably a record for the United States.

Strong as it was, the big blow didn't flip off a hat. It was 20,000 feet up, in what the experts call a jet stream.

The Philadelphia weather station was said to have clocked the furious wind at 11 a.m. EST yesterday with rawinsonde equipment—a balloon with reflecting device and transmitter. Four hours later it was still racing from the southwest at a 35,000-foot speed of 337 miles an hour.

Of the 392 m.p.h. recording, the spokesman here said, "As far as we know, this may be the fastest wind ever to occur over the United States." He said it clearly was part of a jet stream, a meandering flow of air sometimes 100 miles long and anywhere up to 200 miles wide.

Drought Forces State Farmers To Haul Water

BALTIMORE, Jan. 25 (AP) — A meteorologist said today that the water shortage in central Maryland has reached the point where wells are going dry forcing farmers to buy and haul water.

"Only those who have deep wells are holding their own," said George N. Brancato, chief meteorologist for the U. S. Weather Bureau here. He said the shortage was particularly bad for farms and homes north and northwest of Baltimore, which are situated 250 to 300 feet above sea level.

Meanwhile geologists report that the drought has depleted the water table in six central counties by an average of three feet. At a test well in Montgomery County, the level dropped 11 feet last year, said Claire A. Richardson of the United States Geological Survey.

The 18 testing wells in Harford, Howard, Baltimore, Carroll, Frederick and Montgomery counties showed an average net decline for the year of three feet.

However, Miss Richardson said the trend represents no general menace. "Rocks of this area are such that a lot of water cannot be stored in them," she said.

The picture is much brighter in other sections of the State. In Southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore where artesian sources provide water, there is little or no trouble.

Western Maryland has about four feet more water than last year, Miss Richardson said. She attributed the rise in the three western counties to "a terrific amount of rain during Hurricane Hazel."

In the Baltimore industrial area where pumping has a direct affect on the water table, a negligible decline of .39 of a foot was measured last year.

Anne Arundel County showed an average three-foot decline in the water table.

Sheriff To Install Electric Razors

MINEOLA, N. Y., Jan. 25 (AP)—Sheriff H. Alfred Vollmer said today he plans to install electric razors for his 180-odd prisoners.

Vollmer said maybe a dozen of the razors should take care of the Nassau County jail's hirsute growth.

He said he thinks his jail will be the first in the country to offer such an accommodation.

Vollmer's plan was prompted by a prisoner's attempted suicide this week with a razor blade. Jail officials couldn't say how he got it.

The sheriff said electric razors would eliminate one of the chores of prison guard everywhere — standing over a prisoner while he shaves to make sure the blade is returned.

Doctors In Two Cities Diagnose Cancer Via TV

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP) — In history's first test of its kind, two doctors in different cities concurred via color television recently in diagnosing a breast cancer in a woman.

As the patient, identified only as "a lovely 46-year-old woman," lay anesthetized on an operating table in Philadelphia, a pathologist there microscopically examined a piece of test tissue removed from her right breast.

Then, doctors in Philadelphia, Washington and Baltimore watched and heard him over a three-way closed TV circuit, he gave his definite opinion that the tissue was cancerous. But he asked the view of a pathologist watching the whole thing from Baltimore.

The latter, without hesitation, also voiced his opinion the tissue was cancerous—and then the surgeons in Philadelphia went ahead with the operation, although this was not seen on TV.

New Machine Installed By Brewery

The Queen City Brewing Company is nearing the completion of its modernization program and the latest move in that direction is the installation of a huge bottle washing machine, according to L. N. Duncan, general manager for the company.

Duncan said the new piece of equipment is the latest type and works automatically. It can wash and sterilize 364 beer bottles per minute. Weighing 40 tons, the machine is 34 feet long, 12 feet high and eight feet wide.

The machine handles 26 bottles at one time and in one minute it can wash and sterilize 14 "dumps" of bottles. Duncan said the machine, which will be placed in the large bottle house across Market Street from the brew house, will not only speed up the washing process but also do the most thorough kind of job of sterilization.

"We like to think that we are progressing with the Cumberland area in an industrial manner by our modernization program", Duncan stated. "We have faith in Cumberland and hope to progress with the community now that the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company is locating here and also take part in the industrial promotion plan now underway", he added.

"The Queen City Brewing Company has shown an increase in volume of production during the last four years and we are anticipating a continuance of this trend", Duncan declared.

The brewery employs several hundred persons and the workers are represented by the CIO Brewery Workers Union. After the repeal of prohibition in 1933 the brewing firm made extensive additions to the original plant which has been in operation for many years.

County Offered Equipment Of Beauty School

In a letter to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday the operators of the Tri-State School of Beauty Culture offered to present the county some surplus equipment which could be used at the County Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Scott, operators of the school, said that if a suitable room could be provided at the County Home the equipment could be set up and beauty treatment given the women at the home. They also said students at the school would make periodic visits to the home to give the beauty treatments mainly hair dressing and the like.

The commissioners decided to turn over the matter to Earl Grim, superintendent of the home, for action. If there is a room which can be utilized for the purpose the board felt it would be a good idea.

A letter was received from Martin Hall Carrier who asked that repairs be made to the DeHaven Road, Bottomfield Lane and brush cut from the embankment along Williams Road from a point near the Littlefield property to the top of Irons Mountain.

J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, reported that he had visited Lower Town Creek Road with Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of school bus transportation, to look over a proposed turnaround for buses which use that route to haul children into the Oldtown School.

The proposed turnaround would be located at a driveway adjacent to the property of H. Nelson Sellers and a man named Deffinbaugh. These property owners are agreeable for the widening of the driveway to provide a place for buses to turn. With such a turnaround the children would be saved about a mile and a half walk to get to the spot where the buses stop. Chapman was authorized to have the work done.

Applications are being received by local gas appliance dealers and the C&A Gas Company from women who are 21 years of age or over and married who wish to compete for the title of "Mrs. Western Maryland" in a homemakers contest.

Skating Champs To Appear In March Of Dimes Benefit

A roller skating party featuring the champion girl and boy skaters of Pennsylvania has been arranged by Thomas G. Gibson as a benefit for the March of Dimes to be held Friday night in the State Armory. The combined skating party and show will begin at 7:45 p.m. and last three hours.

Gibson, manager of the Armory Roller Rink, states that all proceeds from the ticket office will be turned over to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The entire staff of the rink will work free.

As an added attraction, Gibson will put on a skating show of roller skating champions from the Lexington Roller Rink of Pittsburgh. The show will open with Billy Betz, just 6 years old, the Pennsylvania Diaper Division Champion of 1954; Donna Lee Kress and Pete Riley, Pennsylvania state free style champs of 1954; Mary Tigano, free style novice skater of Pittsburgh, and the star of the show, Donna Lee Kress, age 11, Eastern Regional juvenile free skating champion of 1953-54, also Eastern Regional juvenile pair skating champion 1953-54, and also American juvenile pair skating champion 1952. All of the above named skaters are from the Lexington Roller Club, Edna Betz, pro teacher.

This show will be presented under sanction issued by the Roller Skating Rink Operators Association of America, of which the Armory rink is a member.

Choir Entertains East Side PTA

The a cappella choir of Fort Hill High School, directed by Miss Annetta Yates, presented the pageant "The American Way" at a recent meeting of East Side School PTA.

The program opened with James Hager singing The Lord's Prayer. Charles E. Cubbage, president, was in charge of the business session. Reports were heard from the secretary and treasurer and a cash balance of $339.92 was listed.

Mrs. George See gave a report on the Allegany County Council of Parents and Teachers. A film on the March of Dimes, narrated by Actress Helen Hayes, closed the program.

Lawyers Will Attend State Bar Meeting

Allegany County attorneys will attend the mid-winter meeting of the Maryland Bar Association Saturday in the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel, Baltimore.

A number of county lawyers will be in Baltimore on Friday to participate in the one-day institute held in the same hotel under the sponsorship of the Committee on Continuing Legal Education of the state bar association.

W. Earle Cobey, this city, is a member of the continuing legal education committee.

Gas Co. To Sponsor Homemakers Contest

Applications are being received by local gas appliance dealers and the C&A Gas Company from women who are 21 years of age or over and married who wish to compete for the title of "Mrs. Western Maryland" in a homemakers contest.

The contest is based on abilities as a homemaker and meal planner with personal appearance having a bearing on the decision as to the winner. Contest officials emphasized that married women who appear in the event are not required to parade in bathing suits. This part of the program has been dropped by contest officials.

Women who reside in Allegany and Garrett counties are eligible and the deadline to sign up for the event is March 1. The time and place for the contest here will be announced soon. A tentative date of April 1 has been set.

The winner of the "Mrs. Western Maryland" contest will receive a cash prize of $150, a new gas range and various smaller prizes donated by merchants. The winner here will also compete in the "Mrs. Maryland" finals at Hagerstown on April 22.

"Mrs. Maryland" will win an all-expense trip for herself and her husband to and from Ellinor Village, Fla., where the grand finals of the 17th annual "Mrs. America" contest will be staged. The national winner will remain an extra two weeks in Florida with all expenses paid as an additional prize.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25—(INS)—Ava Gardner's former "heart," dashing bullfighter Luis Miguel Dominguin, will be in Hollywood this weekend. But Ava will be half wayacross the world in Pakistan.

What Brings Dominguin to Hollywood is that he's signing a contract with Jose Ferrer to play one of the top roles in "Matador" in which Jose will star as well as direct.

Several years ago Luis retired from the bullrings of Spain at the very height of his fame. He has plenty of money—but he's nursed a yen to be an actor for a long time.

"Matador" is Barnaby Conrad's novel about a retired matador (which Jose will play) and a brash young fullfighter, played by Dominguin.

Very ambitious are the plans of Robert Jacks. Spyros Skouras Jr., Plato Skouras and Bob Goldstein, who have formed the Crown Production Company.

This young generation group has bought "The Killer Is Loose," a mystery thriller, for their first picture. Kirk Douglas has the script and is to give his answer in a few days. It would be an easy role for Kirk, because he wouldn't have to learn one word of dialogue. This is a silent role with Kirk speaking nary a word.

Young Jacks, son-in-law of Darryl Zanuck, is the producer. Plato is his assistant, Spyro Jr., will handle the finances in New York (the Skouras boys are Spyros Skouras' sons) Bob Goldstein, executive producer, is the late Leonard Goldstein's brother.

Betty Hutton, who "retired" from show business, is making one more appearance—or should we say another "last appearance"—at Las Vegas with Blossom Seeley and Benny Fields in celebration of their 44th year in show business.

Remember, Betty played Blossom in "Somebody Loves Me," the story based on the lives of these two perennial beloved entertainers—Blossom and Benny.

All the talk that Lana Turner and John Wayne argued from the very start of "Sea Chase" to the finish apparently hasn't harmed their performances in the picture.

I talked with Jack Warner at the Ladd wedding, and he told me that Lana is superb, looks great, and, of course, Jack always thinks John Wayne is a fine actor.

Lana was as pleased as if she'd never received a compliment when I told her what Jack had said. I saw her and Lex walk home hand in hand after the wedding. They live on the same street as Sue and Alan.

Orry Kelly does everything well, from painting to designing gorgeous clothes. Now he is going to show his spring collection using Suzanne Dadolle as his model, on February 2 in the penthouse at Romanoff's.

Ina Claire, who is a close friend of Orry, is flying from San Francisco for the event, and Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein, another good friend, is coming from New York to be on hand for this social event.

Orry designed the dress worn by Gracie Allen at her testimonial dinner and it was a knockout! Thank goodness, he doesn't follow Dior.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The Andy Russells are expecting a baby in September. He was married about a year ago to Velia Sanchez-Belmont, daughter of a former Mexican ambassador to Holland.

The talk around town is that Linda Christian Power, Edmund Purdom's close friend, received over $250,000 worth of jewels from Robert Schlesinger, Mona Williams son.

Starting date on "How To Be Very, Very Popular" is February 21 to give Betty Grable time to finish three TV shows.

Anne Stebbins, the Arthur Stebbins' 18-year-old beauty, was at the dinner with Robert Wagner. Bob told me he thought she was one of the prettiest girls he had ever seen.

Shelley Winters with Farley Granger (what, again) and Tennessee Williams were a threesome at the Philharmonic to see the ballet.

Director Ralph Murphy is in Hollywood Hospital with a ruptured varicose vein.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Beth Jacob Elects Lewine President

Sander Y. Lewine was elected president of Beth Jacob Congregation at the annual meeting Sunday night.

He succeeds David Kauffman, assistant attorney general, who was elected to the board of trustees.

Re-elected were Harry Stein, secretary; and Moses Sachs, treasurer. The new vice president is Leon Kruth. Other trustees Jerome Farber and George Ossip.

Dr. S. M. Jacobson, chairman of the building committee, reviewed architectural and financial plans for the congregation's planned educational annex.

County Plans To Share Hospital Addition Cost

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday tentatively agreed to share half the cost of a $300,000 addition for the Memorial Hospital Nurses Home at a meeting yesterday with two officials of the hospital.

John A. Moberly, superintendent of the hospital, and Mrs. Gladys L. Brooks, superintendent of nurses, outlined the needs of the nurses home and said conditions were very crowded. A similar appeal for funds was made by the hospital officials at a meeting of the Mayor and Council of Cumberland Monday.

William H. Lemmert, president of the board of commissioners, said that a definite answer on the proposal would be given in a week after the methods of financing the county's share of $150,000 were explored.

Preliminary plans for the nurses home addition were shown the commissioners. It includes a wing running from one end of the present nurses home towards Memorial Avenue. The wing would be on the end of the home next to the hospital proper. The plans were drawn by Fisher, Nes, Campbell and Associates, Baltimore architects, under authorization of the Board of Governors of the hospital.

The plans for an addition would provide three floors with three classrooms, a library and two nursing offices on the first floor. The two other floors would provide living quarters for 60 nurses. There are 117 nurses being accommodated in the present nurses home. It was built to house only 70 nurses.

A prediction come true...

a promise to you made good ...a challenge renewed for 5-D Gasolene

CITIES SERVICE OIL COMPANY

PRODUCERS • REFINERS • MARKETERS • EXPORTERS

NEW YORK 5, N. Y.

SEVENTY PINE STREET

Memo To Our Customers.

Cities Service refineries are now turning out gasolene with the highest octane available to you... Cities Service New 5-D Premium.

Nobody—literally nobody—tops Cities Service New 5-D Premium in octane. And many of today's gasolenes do not even approach it.

That is why we renew a challenge made when Cities Service New 5-D Premium was first introduced in the fall of 1953. We challenged any motorist driving any car to make the motor knock with New 5-D.

For 1955, we repeat it. The new model engines have all substantially increased compression ratios—some went as high as 9 to 1. These engines demand more of gasolene. They get more from Cities Service New 5-D. Cities Service research and technology have kept pace with the automotive engineer—and far more!

We again challenge you to just try and make your engine—new or old—knock with Cities Service New 5-D Premium Gasolene!

But high octane is not all the story.

As the name implies, Cities Service New 5-D combines five outstanding improvements in a single gasolene. Today, most gasolenes have incorporated some of these improvements. But Cities Service New 5-D—and only 5-D—has all five . . . and you need all five to bring out the top performance of your engine. For example, would you want any of these features missing from your gasolene?

1. EXTRA-HIGH OCTANE. No gasolene on the market has higher octane...most have a much lower octane rating.

2. ANTI-CARBON. The first gasolene to drastically reduce harmful carbon formation and promote a new high in engine cleanliness.

3. ANTI-RUST. Prevents rust throughout entire fuel system.

4. UPPER-CYLINDER LUBRICANT. Built-in lubrication to protect valve stems and top-rings...plus an anti-oxidant that stops this lubricant from oxidizing the way ordinary upper-cylinder lubricants do.

5. ANTI-STALLING. Stops annoying stalling due to weather changes in winter, spring and fall.

When the original 5-D Premium was introduced over a year ago, we at Cities Service predicted that the great competitive petroleum industry would bring forth improvement after improvement.

We also promised you that our research scientists at Cities Service would never rest on their laurels, would leave nothing untried, nothing undone, to produce even finer gasolene.

We are completely confident, because this ever-moving goal of improvement is backed by a research program second to none in progressiveness and underwritten by an investment of more than $35,000,000 during the past two years alone in the latest refining facilities.

Our renewed pledge to you and the 19,000 Cities Service dealers is that this improvement will continue. Fine as it is today, we confidently expect Cities Service New 5-D to be still finer in the days ahead.

Sewage Treatment For Cumberland

We are glad to know that the Mayor and Council has awarded the contract for construction of Cumberland's long-overdue sewage treatment plant.

As was to be expected in awarding a contract of this size (better than $1½ million), some controversy arose, but now that a decision, which we hope is the right one, has been made after due deliberation and consideration, construction should get underway as quickly as possible.

That the successful bidder, Moyer Brothers of Altoona, Pa., expects to do just that was indicated Monday afternoon after the contract was let.

A spokesman for the firm said a field office will be set up here next week and that he hopes to have the main building under roof during the summer. Of the 750 working days allowed by the contract, he said he hopes to give some of them back to the city, indicating he will lose no time in completing this project.

This is highly desirable inasmuch as the city has given its word to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company that it will have the sewage treatment plant ready when the glass company needs it.

Not only will a sewage treatment plant be of invaluable use to Pittsburgh Plate, but it also will remove a kind of stigma from Cumberland's name as well as enhancing this city's desirability for other industrial expansion.

It always has been rather disturbing to us to have to admit to ourselves, much less to strangers, that Cumberland had no sewage treatment facilities but instead used the Potomac River as a giant open sewer.

Construction of a sewage treatment plant here will reduce considerably the health hazard, it will reduce immeasurably the pollution of the Potomac River and make its waters satisfactory for industrial use.

To put it mildly, construction of a sewage treatment plant is a step in the right direction. Even before it's begun we anxiously await its completion.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Means Of Distribution

The question of public power versus private power is now centered in the Dixon-Yates controversy which ultimately will be discussed in the 84th Congress in all its manifestations. Dixon-Yates is only one contract of which there are several providing private power for a government-owned operation; the issue of public versus private power is fundamental in American economy.

Let us say that sooner or later, atomic power will produce all the electric power used in this country. Let us assume, for the sake of argument, that a way will be found to replace coal, oil, and waterpower and that even our automobiles will be serviced by atomic power. It is obviously not so at this moment, but the submarine "Nautilus" is being powered, in some manner, by the atom and it is apparently an efficient operation. If that can be done, anything can be operated by atomic power and all we need to do is to wait until developments occur.

We then face the economic fact that all atomic power is government-owned. Should atomic power eventually do to coal and oil and water-power what the electric light did to gaslight and the Welsbach mantle or what the steam engine did to the sail or what the automobile did to the horse and buggy, all power, all light and heat will be owned by the Government of the United States. Presently existing private enterprises then would not be able to compete with, we may assume, more efficient and therefore cheaper production, free from taxation and without the checks on costs essential in private enterprise.

When this occurs, it could be that there would be no private power in the United States at all. Is it then the intention of the American people that the government should own the total means of distributing power in the United States? Such a step would, by definition, be socialism, which is, by definition, government ownership and control of the means of production and distribution.

The seriousness of this problem cannot be underestimated because involved is not only the question of a particular company but the nature of our society. Already government control of money and banking is of such a character that the element of risk is rapidly being eliminated from this field. The government has guaranteed loans and deposits to the tune of somewhere in the neighborhood of $250,000,000,000 on equities which, in many instances, are of so dubious a protective to the lender that no private enterprise would regard them even as a shaky risk. The tariff policy is being designed to eliminate American competition in the American market by giving European and Asiatic traders advantages which many American manufacturers cannot enjoy.

There is no free market if one side of it is being subsidized and the other side is not. The result is bound to be that all sides will seek subsidies which can only mean further government control.

In addition to all this is the current practise of the large labor unions, owning enormous reserves of capital, to purchase the stock of companies in their industry, which, if it develops unimpeded, could at some point give the union control of management, the union functioning both as ownership and labor, forcing management into the employ of the unions. Of this, we shall be hearing much during the next year or two, culminating politically in the 1960 election.

The time to think broadly about these problems is now, not when trends have manifested themselves so firmly that there is nothing to do about them. The Dixon-Yates case could be used by both political parties not to decide whether Messrs. Dixon and Yates should have their contract but whether the United States can devise a firm policy on the fundamental question of public power or private power and to relate it all to atomic energy. Thus far, on both sides, much heat but little policy has been generated.

We have a tendency in this country to go along without policy, to support or oppose on an ad hominem basis, to hit-or-miss and hope-to-God we do not fail. But what is needed is a philosophy and a policy so that it can be clear to all that there is a plan and a purpose for what is done.

The Heart Of The Matter

Request To Use Military Intended To Prevent War

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — For the first time since December 1941, a President of the United States has formally requested authority from Congress to use the armed forces of the United States in a specific situation involving already existent hostilities.

But the step is intended, nevertheless, more to prevent a war and indeed to stop the present fighting, than to enlarge the scope of military action.

So it may truly be said that the President has acted to prevent a war rather than to bring one on. And, if there is a calming down of the situation in the Far East in a few days, the world may witness a dramatic vindication of the philosophy expressed so often by statesmen of courage that the best way to deter an aggressor government is to let it know clearly and explicitly in advance that you will resist.

Supported By Congress

The Congress is ready to support the joint resolution overwhelmingly. This in itself is a demonstration not only of national unity but firmness in a crisis. The Republicans naturally follow their party leader, while the Democrats are saying that the chief executive already has ample power but they are not unwilling to express their support by voting for the resolution so that world opinion may be impressed. It presents a combination of legal and psychological factors.

Mr. Eisenhower might have spoken in person to Congress instead of transmitting his written request by messenger to both houses, but it was stated in his behalf that he didn't want to overdramatize the occasion and give the impression that this was like other instances in history when a request for war powers was being made. Still it would have been better if the President had addressed Congress, especially since later in the same day he posed before the newsreels and television cameras and read half the text of the message anyway.

The wording of the document is of transcendent importance as a precedent. Careful examination of its phrases will reveal that providing "military and economic support to the Chinese Nationalist government" is only one of several reasons for the step. Primarily the objective is to protect the interests of the United States.

Designed To Resist Attack

The Republic of China, with its capital on Formosa, has invited American aid and when any government requests aid from another, it is in accord with international law to come to its support. The resolution, however, states that the move is designed to resist an armed attack, which, "if continued, would gravely endanger the peace and security of the West Pacific area." It goes on to say that "the secure possession by friendly governments of the Western Pacific island chain, of which Formosa is a part, is essential to the vital interests of the United States and all friendly nations in or bordering upon the Pacific Ocean."

This makes clear the case for a specific defense of the United States by protecting its outlying areas. For, in an age of airpower, it is vitally important that bases thousands of miles away from one's own continent shall be in friendly hands lest an attack by air be launched from those bases.

President Truman recognized this principle when he ordered the U.S. Seventh Fleet to protect Formosa in June 1950 when American forces joined with other nations in a United Nations command to resist aggression in North Korea. Many observers feel that Mr. Truman should have gone to Congress after that act of intervention to secure ratification of what he had done.

Used As Precedent

Already using that precedent as a guide, many persons are saying now that President Eisenhower didn't need to go to Congress to get authority to protect Formosa. The truth is that in an emergency a president can act on his own, but is morally bound to go to Congress for confirmation if the hostilities continue or are enlarged as they were in Korea.

Mr. Eisenhower promised the American people in his 1952 campaign that he would consult Congress before taking any steps that might lead to war. He is making good that promise. The people's representatives have a right and duty to join with him, especially since the Constitution gives Congress alone the power to declare war. Certainly, if there's time, it's always better to go to Congress, and there is no reason why a President in a developing crisis—these incidents rarely happen without some warning — cannot ask Congress in advance for contingent authority. That's what Mr. Eisenhower has done now and it may prove a salutary device in preventing a local skirmish from turning into a big war.

Baering Down On The News

Job by job Alben Barkley is writing his autobiography on glass doors.

Our exclusive specimen of reformed veepees will next rattle his charm bracelet on the Committee of Foreign Relations. This is the committee that investigates committees.

The State Department brought me up with a U-turn for suggesting Foster Dulles was responsible for sending the Athletics to Kansas City. Now they expect the Barker to straighten out that Willie Mays-Ruben Gomez embrawlio in Puerto Rico.

Our foreign relations have been strained like baby food. The Barker's first job will be to turn a couple of hats around. Convince Syngman Rhee the grass is just as green on his side of the 38th Parallel. And switch Adenauer's bird dog around so it points north and south.

He may fine Chiang Kai-shek half the distance of Formosa and stop that French nonsense of drinking milk. The Barker can do it. He has the only smile in Washington that you don't have to hold up with toothpicks.

We have briefed Alben on the amicable solution of either foreign or domestic relations. We do the visiting.

That smile of Alben's is smoother than waffle syrup. When he was shilling for FDR he made more friends than the national chairman could pay off.

The Barker may speak with a drawl but he listens sharp.

After some of his early Kentucky elections the Mau Maus should be softer than blue blankets. We're not so sure about the Huk Huks and the Veet Veets. Looks like a lot of duplicate effort.

The Barker knows that everything in checkers and diplomacy is played on the diagonal.

The rest is as easy as boiling water. Just agree with everything when you're doing the suggesting. Do a little shadow-boxing with silhouettes on frosted glass. A bit of low-level sky-writing with a quill pen dipped in smog.

One Good Feature: Fibroids Rarely Become Malignant

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Uterine fibroids, the most common of all tumors, are said to exist in half the women over 50. They vary in size from a small pebble to a grapefruit, and one to a dozen or more may be present.

No one knows why these tumors develop. They begin to grow during the reproductive years and regress in size after milady stops menstruating. For this reason, we believe fibroids are related to or governed by the ovaries.

Fibroids may be harbored for years before causing symptoms. The behavior and effect of these lesions depend upon their location in the walls of the uterus. Those near the outer edge often escape detection unless they grow large enough to impinge upon nearby structures.

Pressure upon the bladder and rectum disturbs the functioning of these organs and symptoms referred therefrom may be the first indication of a fibroid. Huge tumors may create a sensation of heaviness or undue weight in the pelvic region. Fibroids weighing more than 75 pounds have been recorded.

If the tumor is near the inner lining, it need not be large to affect the function of the uterus; a small growth in this area may lead to profuse hemorrhage. In younger women, the tumor may interfere with conception or the baby's development or delivery. Of all the symptoms, abnormal bleeding is the most frequent.

These tumors usually are thought of when menstruation is prolonged or spotting occurs after the menopause. Occasionally they are blamed for low back pain, frequency of urination, constipation, hemorrhoids, or varicose veins, but the relationship is questionable and surgery does not always eliminate such symptoms.

Operation seldom is recommended unless fibroids produce symptoms, except when the tumors are larger than an ordinary orange. Even though they are not bothersome at the time of examination, removal of the uterus (hysterectomy) is the procedure most often recommended.

With younger women who are desirous of having children, it may be possible to take out the individual fibroids. This procedure has corrected many sterility problems and in this respect is well worthwhile. But it is tedious and there is no guarantee against the return of the tumors. For these reasons, hysterectomy is better in older women. The sole encouraging feature about fibroids is that they rarely become malignant.

TOMORROW: The development of whooping cough.

BATHS AND HEALTH

R. S. writes: I have heard that taking a hot tub bath every day is bad for the system in general. Lately I have been taking baths less frequently and seem to feel better. Is this my imagination?

REPLY

Hot baths are relaxing and cleansing, but any benefits beyond this are purely psychological. Don't associate your improved health with taking fewer baths.

LEG PAINS AND SALT

M. S. writes: If a person on a low salt diet develops pain in the calf of the legs, could too little salt be responsible?

REPLY

Yes, in the same way that men working in hot places such as steel mills may develop abdominal and leg cramps if excessive sweating causes them to lose too much salt through perspiration.

PHLEBOTOMY IS ANCIENT

L. H. writes: I hear that taking away a pint of blood from a vein periodically is a new remedy for high blood pressure. Can you tell me about it?

REPLY

Bloodletting as a remedy is as old as man. The removal of a pint of blood lowers blood pressure temporarily and in this respect the procedure is used only as an emergency measure.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

The recent revival of Sherlock Holmes by A. Conan Doyle's son, Adrian, and John Dixon Carr, is a source of deep satisfaction to the rank and file of detective story addicts, and even the exacting members of the Baker Street Irregulars have reacted favorably. Discrepancies they have discovered, but theirs is an allegiance best expressed in the lines composed by Conan Doyle's brother-in-law (himself the creator of Raffles), Mr. E. W. Hornung:

Tho he might be more humble,
There's no police like Holmes.

McGregor lay breathing his last. He roused himself to whisper to the assemblage round his bedside, "Tannish owes me 50 pounds." "It's a great mind the man has," marveled his wife. "Clear as a bell to the very end." McGregor spoke again: "I believe I owe Sandy Mollinson a hundred pounds." "Ach, the poor mon," sobbed Mrs. McGregor. "Take no notice of his delirious meanderings!"

Eisenhower's Proposals On Formosa Are Not Expected To Lead To War

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Don't start buying a couple of steers and salting them away in the deep freeze as a result of the current rash of messages to Congress, Security Council meetings and secret huddles at the White House. The chances are about 10 to 1 there will be no general shooting war. Here are some of the reasons why:

1. The last thing Eisenhower wants, as a military man, is to go down in history as having plunged the United States into war. He is straining at the leash away from too much risk in the Far East, and some of his military advisers complain bitterly against it.

2. The Republican party—or at least one-half of it—can't afford the stigma of getting the United States into war. They hurled accusations at the Democrats as the "war party" at the last election. If the Republicans fell for the same thing they accused the Democrats of doing, their political goose would be cooked for years.

3. British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden has some tricks up his sleeve, namely pressure on the Chinese Reds for more reasonable behavior; also, an olive branch plus a face-saving solution which will let the U.S.A. off the hook — though it won't please Chiang Kai-shek. This solution is: turn Formosa over to the United Nations, though keeping Chiang in control.

Stacked up against these favorable factors for peace, there is one unpredictable, worrisome factor — namely the brashness, boldness of the Chinese Communists.

Ike's Big Risk

An older, more experienced, less cocky nation would never precipitate war at this time. The Chinese Reds, however, are flush with the virtual victory they scored in Korea, plus an even greater victory in Indochina. They realize they can fight. They were surprised and pleased at their own ability to fight in Korea. Swollen with success, they could rush into war.

If so, military strategists at the Pentagon are betting that Russia will not come in.

This is the big risk Eisenhower takes. He is taking it especially in the defense of the small islands of Quemoy and Matsu which are within swimming distance of the Chinese mainland and which can be taken by Red China—unless the United States gives Chiang all-out support.

NOTE — Pentagon advisers tell the White House that because the Chinese Reds are so bold and brash, they had better be stopped now before they get stronger; we can't go on bowing to them forever.

Backstage Battles

Here are highlights of the backstage huddles and secret arguments taking place during the past week:

Republican Split — Paradoxically the group within the Republican party which demands a showdown with China is the same isolationist group which bucked the League of Nations, opposed the Marshall Plan, and has been against entangling alliances and foreign involvements. . . . Many of them have become so steamed up over China, however, that they forget their previous isolation. . . . What got them steamed up was a combination of General MacArthur's persuasion, campaign money contributed by the China lobby, plus belief in their own election slogans. There was so much attack on the Acheson-Truman policy in China that one wing of the GOP is now convinced that it has to do something different. . . . Speaker Joe Martin, who came back from breakfast with Ike to announce that the President didn't need any extra authority from Congress, is a great devotee of General MacArthur's. . . . Joe put his foot in it—however. For Republicans had been blaming Truman for acting without authority in Korea. Now Joe admits that the President has authority to act in such emergencies.

History Repeats—Unquestionably Secretary Dulles is following the old Acheson policy of hands-off the Chinese mainland — and for the same reason: fear of getting bogged down on a continent where life is cheaper than peanuts. Ike has said repeatedly, privately, that he shares the same fear. . . . History has repeated in more ways than one. When Dulles made his press-conference statement that the Tachen Islands were not a military necessity to the defense of Formosa, he automatically invited Fed Chinese attack. For the Reds figured the United States would not intervene at the Tachens. . . . When Acheson made a similar speech about Korea not being militarily essential to the United States, he automatically invited a Communist attack on Korea. . . . After Dulles's press-conference statement, Chiang sent a bitter cable accusing Dulles of cutting the ground out from under him.

Dulles Vs. Radford — During the Truman administration a bitter battle continued for months between Dean Acheson and General MacArthur over intervention on the Chinese mainland. Now the battle is between the man who succeeded Acheson and the chief military man in the Eisenhower administration —Adm. Arthur Radford. Radford was relegated to the Navy's "Siberia" (the mid-Pacific) by Truman after he got into civil war with the Air Force. But Ike brought him back from "Siberia" after Radford met him at a refueling stop in Iwo Jima in December 1952, and Radford sweet-talked him about how Chiang Kai-shek could retake China if only unleashed. . . . Chiang was unleashed; also was given U. S. ships and support. But he's now right back where he was under Acheson with the U. S. Navy protecting him. . . . Radford and Dulles got so vehement at one White House meeting over the release of American fliers, that Eisenhower intervened. . . . The admiral claimed the way to get the fliers was to blockade the China coast. The secretary of state argued that Russia had just released three American citizens, which was her way of setting an example to China. Therefore the United States must be patient. . . . Radford vigorously disagreed. . . . Whereupon Ike got peeved, gave Radford a lecture on the importance of considering political factors in handling foreign affairs.

A Waste Of Talent

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS) — A mothballed public servant of the United States named Douglas MacArthur will be 75 years old this week. He's going to make one of his rare speeches and public appearances in Los Angeles, where there's a park named for him. He could with justification paraphrase Lincoln and say, as his preface, "Washington will little note nor long remember what we say here, but. . ."

MacArthur is in electric razors now, plus typewriters and UNIVAC, which is Remington Rand's ultimate calculator that does everything but give milk and costs better than $1,000,000. Members of Congress drop in to see him from time to time, to ask what is the score of the crazy ball game we're all engaged in or are watching. But the Eisenhower administration plainly took him at his word. In the eyes of the administration he indeed faded away, especially after it became obvious he was for Taft.

Waste Of Resources

MacArthur is happy with his new work, and strives at improving his business knowledge with the zeal of a junior salesman bucking for a bonus. He goes to the office in Connecticut two or three times a week, sees prospective customers (UNIVAC-type) at his apartment in the Waldorf on other days, and spends some time at his downtown military office, which handles the bulk of his impressive mail.

But his forced inactivity in defense matters and other fields vital to the welfare of the U. S. constitutes one of the more appalling wastes of our natural resources on record. Over half a century he has been our brightest military mind.

Born in the Army, raised in the Army, he set unparalleled marks for valor and achievement in two world wars, in Korea and skirmishes as separated as the trouble with Mexico in 1914, the Philippine insurrection of a decade and more before, and the Russian-Japanese war in which he was Theodore Roosevelt's observer. He was chief of staff under both Hoover and FDR, and an unexcelled prophet of things to come and mentor and hero of hosts of men who gained fame as generals — including Eisenhower.

Fired Like A Flunky

But President Truman fired him like a flunky and President Eisenhower is advised not to seek his advice or counsel on military matters.

For about 15 years this country has been deeply involved in the Far East. First there were negotiations of a sort with Japan, then in a costly war against that nation, which included fantastically contrived aid to China. There followed the democratization of defeated Japan, the restoration of that nation and of the Philippines, the defense of Korea, and the wrangling with Red China — which may continue for a long time to come. Maybe forever.

It can be pretty safely said that only one American truly knows all those countries' military, economic, social and traditional side. — MacArthur. He has mingled with Japanese and Filipinos since his first assignments as a young shavetail just out of West Point at the turn of the century. He kept Chiang Kai-shek in the war against Japan, was in the field against the forces which replaced Chiang. He brilliantly avenged Bataan, Corregidor, Manila and Pearl Harbor. His work as a pro-consul in the rehabilitation of Japan, he feels, will be remembered long after he has been forgotten as its conqueror.

But nobody in the administration asks him what to do in our difficult hit-or-miss dealings with that part of the world.

Congress is considering granting MacArthur the only military position he has not had, the rare title of "general of the armies" — a sort of sixth star which would put him with Pershing in the annals of American arms. It would be a nice gesture and he'd accept it warmly, if it is offered.

Spry And Alert

But it would be nice, too, if Washington gave a damn that he is alive, rugged, has all his marbles, and would go to work tomorrow as a buck private if called upon.

In its outlook on elders, this country has failed pitifully to keep pace with the extension of life expectancy. The wonder drugs, sports, better living conditions and diets have boosted the life expectancy more than 20 years since 1900. But we still turn people out of their jobs at 65 or less. Employers still balk at hiring workers after 45. Age, somebody decided, is to be classed with leprosy but is not to be as sympathetically treated.

MacArthur at 75 is mentally younger than many men a third his age. He is spry, alert, surprisingly free of bitterness, supremely self-possessed in a time of epidemic uncertainty, and willing.

He is a burning oilwell, an abandoned mansion, a neglected book, an untapped reservoir in a drought area. Ah, it's a great pity.

But, at least, we can wish him a happy birthday.

And many, many more.

Sewage Treatment For Cumberland

We are glad to know that the Mayor and Council has awarded the contract for construction of Cumberland's long-overdue sewage treatment plant.

As was to be expected in awarding a contract of this size (better than $1½ million), some controversy arose, but now that a decision, which we hope is the right one, has been made after due deliberation and consideration, construction should get underway as quickly as possible.

That the successful bidder, Moyer Brothers of Altoona, Pa., expects to do just that was indicated Monday afternoon after the contract was let.

A spokesman for the firm said a field office will be set up here next week and that he hopes to have the main building under roof during the summer. Of the 750 working days allowed by the contract, he said he hopes to give some of them back to the city, indicating he will lose no time in completing this project.

This is highly desirable inasmuch as the city has given its word to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company that it will have the sewage treatment plant ready when the glass company needs it.

Not only will a sewage treatment plant be of invaluable use to Pittsburgh Plate, but it also will remove a kind of stigma from Cumberland's name as well as enhancing this city's desirability for other industrial expansion.

It always has been rather disturbing to us to have to admit to ourselves, much less to strangers, that Cumberland had no sewage treatment facilities but instead used the Potomac River as a giant open sewer.

Construction of a sewage treatment plant here will reduce considerably the health hazard, it will reduce immeasurably the pollution of the Potomac River and make its waters satisfactory for industrial use.

To put it mildly, construction of a sewage treatment plant is a step in the right direction. Even before it's begun we anxiously await its completion.

Means Of Distribution

The question of public power versus private power is now centered in the Dixon-Yates controversy which ultimately will be discussed in the 84th Congress in all its manifestations. Dixon-Yates is only one contract of which there are several providing private power for a government-owned operation; the issue of public versus private power is fundamental in American economy.

Let us say that sooner or later, atomic power will produce all the electric power used in this country. Let us assume, for the sake of argument, that a way will be found to replace coal, oil, and waterpower and that even our automobiles will be serviced by atomic power. It is obviously not so at this moment, but the submarine "Nautilus" is being powered, in some manner, by the atom and it is apparently an efficient operation. If that can be done, anything can be operated by atomic power and all we need to do is to wait until developments occur.

We then face the economic fact that all atomic power is government-owned. Should atomic power eventually do to coal and oil and water-power what the electric light did to gaslight and the Welsbach mantle or what the steam engine did to the sail or what the automobile did to the horse and buggy, all power, all light and heat will be owned by the Government of the United States. Presently existing private enterprises then would not be able to compete with, we may assume, more efficient and therefore cheaper production, free from taxation and without the checks on costs essential in private enterprise.

When this occurs, it could be that there would be no private power in the United States at all. Is it then the intention of the American people that the government should own the total means of distributing power in the United States? Such a step would, by definition, be socialism, which is, by definition, government ownership and control of the means of production and distribution.

The seriousness of this problem cannot be underestimated because involved is not only the question of a particular company but the nature of our society. Already government control of money and banking is of such a character that the element of risk is rapidly being eliminated from this field. The government has guaranteed loans and deposits to the tune of somewhere in the neighborhood of $250,000,000,000 on equities which, in many instances, are of so dubious a protective to the lender that no private enterprise would regard them even as a shaky risk. The tariff policy is being designed to eliminate American competition in the American market by giving European and Asiatic traders advantages which many American manufacturers cannot enjoy.

There is no free market if one side of it is being subsidized and the other side is not. The result is bound to be that all sides will seek subsidies which can only mean further government control.

In addition to all this is the current practise of the large labor unions, owning enormous reserves of capital, to purchase the stock of companies in their industry, which, if it develops unimpeded, could at some point give the union control of management, the union functioning both as ownership and labor, forcing management into the employ of the unions. Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Job by job Alben Barkley is writing his autobiography on glass doors.

Our exclusive specimen of reformed veepees will next rattle his charm bracelet on the Committee of Foreign Relations. This is the committee that investigates committees.

The State Department brought me up with a U-turn for suggesting Foster Dulles was responsible for sending the Athletics to Kansas City. Now they expect the Barker to straighten out that Willie Mays-Ruben Gomez embrawlio in Puerto Rico.

Our foreign relations have been strained like baby food. The Barker's first job will be to turn a couple of hats around. Convince Syngman Rhee the grass is just as green on his side of the 38th Parallel. And switch Adenauer's bird dog around so it points north and south.

He may fine Chiang Kai-shek half the distance of Formosa and stop that French nonsense of drinking milk. The Barker can do it. He has the only smile in Washington that you don't have to hold up with toothpicks.

We have briefed Alben on the amicable solution of either foreign or domestic relations. We do the visiting.

That smile of Alben's is smoother than waffle syrup. When he was shilling for FDR he made more friends than the national chairman could pay off.

The Barker may speak with a drawl but he listens sharp.

After some of his early Kentucky elections the Mau Maus should be softer than blue blankets. We're not so sure about the Huk Huks and the Veet Veets. Looks like a lot of duplicate effort.

The Barker knows that everything in checkers and diplomacy is played on the diagonal.

The rest is as easy as boiling water. Just agree with everything when you're doing the suggesting. Do a little shadow-boxing with silhouettes on frosted glass. A bit of low-level sky-writing with a quill pen dipped in smog.

One Good Feature: Fibroids Rarely Become Malignant

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Uterine fibroids, the most common of all tumors, are said to exist in half the women over 50. They vary in size from a small pebble to a grapefruit, and one to a dozen or more may be present.

No one knows why these tumors develop. They begin to grow during the reproductive years and regress in size after milady stops menstruating. For this reason, we believe fibroids are related to or governed by the ovaries.

Fibroids may be harbored for years before causing symptoms. The behavior and effect of these lesions depend upon their location in the walls of the uterus. Those near the outer edge often escape detection unless they grow large enough to impinge upon nearby structures.

Pressure upon the bladder and rectum disturbs the functioning of these organs and symptoms referred therefrom may be the first indication of a fibroid. Huge tumors may create a sensation of heaviness or undue weight in the pelvic region. Fibroids weighing more than 75 pounds have been recorded.

If the tumor is near the inner lining, it need not be large to affect the function of the uterus; a small growth in this area may lead to profuse hemorrhage. In younger women, the tumor may interfere with conception or the baby's development or delivery. Of all the symptoms, abnormal bleeding is the most frequent.

These tumors usually are thought of when menstruation is prolonged or spotting occurs after the menopause. Occasionally they are blamed for low back pain, frequency of urination, constipation, hemorrhoids, or varicose veins, but the relationship is questionable and surgery does not always eliminate such symptoms.

Operation seldom is recommended unless fibroids produce symptoms, except when the tumors are larger than an ordinary orange. Even though they are not bothersome at the time of examination, removal of the uterus (hysterectomy) is the procedure most often recommended.

With younger women who are desirous of having children, it may be possible to take out the individual fibroids. This procedure has corrected many sterility problems and in this respect is well worthwhile. But it is tedious and there is no guarantee against the return of the tumors. For these reasons, hysterectomy is better in older women. The sole encouraging feature about fibroids is that they rarely become malignant.

TOMORROW: The development of whooping cough.

BATHS AND HEALTH

R. S. writes: I have heard that taking a hot tub bath every day is bad for the system in general. Lately I have been taking baths less frequently and seem to feel better. Is this my imagination?

REPLY

Hot baths are relaxing and cleansing, but any benefits beyond this are purely psychological. Don't associate your improved health with taking fewer baths.

LEG PAINS AND SALT

M. S. writes: If a person on a low salt diet develops pain in the calf of the legs, could too little salt be responsible?

REPLY

Yes, in the same way that men working in hot places such as steel mills may develop abdominal and leg cramps if excessive sweating causes them to lose too much salt through perspiration.

PHLEBOTOMY IS ANCIENT

L. H. writes: I hear that taking away a pint of blood from a vein periodically is a new remedy for high blood pressure. Can you tell me about it?

REPLY

Bloodletting as a remedy is as old as man. The removal of a pint of blood lowers blood pressure temporarily and in this respect the procedure is used only as an emergency measure.

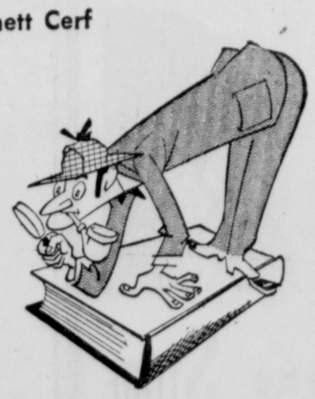
To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

The recent revival of Sherlock Holmes by A. Conan Doyle's son, Adrian, and John Dixon Carr, is a source of deep satisfaction to the rank and file of detective story addicts, and even the exacting members of the Baker Street Irregulars have reacted favorably. Discrepancies they have discovered, but theirs is an allegiance best expressed in the lines composed by Conan Doyle's brother-in-law (himself the creator of Raffles), Mr. E. W. Hornung:

Tho he might be more humble,
There's no police like Holmes.



McGregor lay breathing his last. He roused himself to whisper to the assemblage round his bedside, "Tannish owes me 50 pounds." "It's a great mind the man has," marveled his wife. "Clear as a bell to the very end." McGregor spoke again: "I believe I owe Sandy Mollinson a hundred pounds." "Ach, the poor mon," sobbed Mrs. McGregor. "Take no notice of his delirious meanderings!"

Eisenhower's Proposals On Formosa Are Not Expected To Lead To War

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Don't start buying a couple of steers and salting them away in the deep freeze as a result of the current rash of messages to Congress, Security Council meetings and secret huddles at the White House. The chances are about 10 to 1 there will be no general shooting war. Here are some of the reasons why:

1. The last thing Eisenhower wants, as a military man, is to go down in history as having plunged the United States into war. He is straining at the leash away from too much risk in the Far East, and some of his military advisers complain bitterly against it.

2. The Republican party—or at least one-half of it—can't afford the stigma of getting the United States into war. They hurled accusations at the Democrats as the "war party" at the last election. If the Republicans fell for the same thing they accused the Democrats of doing, their political goose would be cooked for years.

3. British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden has some tricks up his sleeve, namely pressure on the Chinese Reds for more reasonable behavior; also, an olive branch plus a face-saving solution which will let the U.S.A. off the hook — though it won't please Chiang Kai-shek. This solution is: turn Formosa over to the United Nations, though keeping Chiang in control.

Stacked up against these favorable factors for peace, there is one unpredictable, worrisome factor — namely the brashness, boldness of the Chinese Communists.

Ike's Big Risk

An older, more experienced, less cocky nation would never precipitate war at this time. The Chinese Reds, however, are flush with the virtual victory they scored in Korea, plus an even greater victory in Indochina. They realize they can fight. They were surprised and pleased at their own ability to fight in Korea. Swollen with success, they could rush into war.

If so, military strategists at the Pentagon are betting that Russia will not come in.

This is the big risk Eisenhower takes. He is taking it especially in the defense of the small islands of Quemoy and Matsu which are within swimming distance of the Chinese mainland and which can be taken by Red China—unless the United States gives Chiang all-out support.

NOTE — Pentagon advisers tell the White House that because the Chinese Reds are so bold and brash, they had better be stopped now before they get stronger; we can't go on bowing to them forever.

Backstage Battles

Here are highlights of the backstage huddles and secret arguments taking place during the past week:

Republican Split — Paradoxically the group within the Republican party which demands a showdown with China is the same isolationist group which bucked the League of Nations, opposed the Marshall Plan, and has been against entangling alliances and foreign involvements. . . . Many of them have become so steamed up over China, however, that they forget their previous isolation. . . . What got them steamed up was a combination of General MacArthur's persuasion, campaign money contributed by the China lobby, plus belief in their own election slogans. There was so much attack on the Acheson-Truman policy in China that one wing of the GOP is now convinced that it has to do something different. . . . Speaker Joe Martin, who came back from breakfast with Ike to announce that the President didn't need any extra authority from Congress, is a great devotee of General MacArthur's. . . . Joe put his foot in it—however. For Republicans had been blaming Truman for acting without authority in Korea. Now Joe admits that the President has authority to act in such emergencies.

History Repeats—Unquestionably Secretary Dulles is following the old Acheson policy of hands-off the Chinese mainland — and for the same reason: fear of getting bogged down on a continent where life is cheaper than peanuts. Ike has said repeatedly, privately, that he shares the same fear. . . . History has repeated in more ways than one. When Dulles made his press-conference statement that the Tachen Islands were not a military necessity to the defense of Formosa, he automatically invited Fed Chinese attack. For the Reds figured the United States would not intervene at the Tachens. . . . When Acheson made a similar speech about Korea not being militarily essential to the United States, he automatically invited a Communist attack on Korea. . . . After Dulles's press-conference statement, Chiang sent a bitter cable accusing Dulles of cutting the ground out from under him.

Dulles Vs. Radford — During the Truman administration a bitter battle continued for months between Dean Acheson and General MacArthur over intervention on the Chinese mainland. Now the battle is between the man who succeeded Acheson and the chief military man in the Eisenhower administration —Adm. Arthur Radford. Radford was relegated to the Navy's "Siberia" (the mid-Pacific) by Truman after he got into civil war with the Air Force. But Ike brought him back from "Siberia" after Radford met him at a refueling stop in Iwo Jima in December 1952, and Radford sweet-talked him about how Chiang Kai-shek could retake China if only unleashed. . . . Chiang was unleashed; also was given U. S. ships and support. But he's now right back where he was under Acheson with the U. S. Navy protecting him. . . . Radford and Dulles got so vehement at one White House meeting over the release of American fliers, that Eisenhower intervened. . . . The admiral claimed the way to get the fliers was to blockade the China coast. The secretary of state argued that Russia had just released three American citizens, which was her way of setting an example to China. Therefore the United States must be patient. . . . Radford vigorously disagreed. . . . Whereupon Ike got peeved, gave Radford a lecture on the importance of considering political factors in handling foreign affairs.

A Waste Of Talent

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS) — A mothballed public servant of the United States named Douglas MacArthur will be 75 years old this week. He's going to make one of his rare speeches and public appearances in Los Angeles, where there's a park named for him. He could with justification paraphrase Lincoln and say, as his preface, "Washington will little note nor long remember what we say here, but. . ."

MacArthur is in electric razors now, plus typewriters and UNIVAC, which is Remington Rand's ultimate calculator that does everything but give milk and costs better than $1,000,000. Members of Congress drop in to see him from time to time, to ask what is the score of the crazy ball game we're all engaged in or are watching. But the Eisenhower administration plainly took him at his word. In the eyes of the administration he indeed faded away, especially after it became obvious he was for Taft.

Waste Of Resources

MacArthur is happy with his new work, and strives at improving his business knowledge with the zeal of a junior salesman bucking for a bonus. He goes to the office in Connecticut two or three times a week, sees prospective customers (UNIVAC-type) at his apartment in the Waldorf on other days, and spends some time at his downtown military office, which handles the bulk of his impressive mail.

But his forced inactivity in defense matters and other fields vital to the welfare of the U. S. constitutes one of the more appalling wastes of our natural resources on record. Over half a century he has been our brightest military mind.

Born in the Army, raised in the Army, he set unparalleled marks for valor and achievement in two world wars, in Korea and skirmishes as separated as the trouble with Mexico in 1914, the Philippine insurrection of a decade and more before, and the Russian-Japanese war in which he was Theodore Roosevelt's observer. He was chief of staff under both Hoover and FDR, and an unexcelled prophet of things to come and mentor and hero of hosts of men who gained fame as generals — including Eisenhower.

Fired Like A Flunky

But President Truman fired him like a flunky and President Eisenhower is advised not to seek his advice or counsel on military matters.

For about 15 years this country has been deeply involved in the Far East. First there were negotiations of a sort with Japan, then in a costly war against that nation, which included fantastically contrived aid to China. There followed the democratization of defeated Japan, the restoration of that nation and of the Philippines, the defense of Korea, and the wrangling with Red China — which may continue for a long time to come. Maybe forever.

It can be pretty safely said that only one American truly knows all those countries' military, economic, social and traditional side. — MacArthur. He has mingled with Japanese and Filipinos since his first assignments as a young shavetail just out of West Point at the turn of the century. He kept Chiang Kai-shek in the war against Japan, was in the field against the forces which replaced Chiang. He brilliantly avenged Bataan, Corregidor, Manila and Pearl Harbor. His work as a pro-consul in the rehabilitation of Japan, he feels, will be remembered long after he has been forgotten as its conqueror.

But nobody in the administration asks him what to do in our difficult hit-or-miss dealings with that part of the world.

Congress is considering granting MacArthur the only military position he has not had, the rare title of "general of the armies" — a sort of sixth star which would put him with Pershing in the annals of American arms. It would be a nice gesture and he'd accept it warmly, if it is offered.

Spry And Alert

But it would be nice, too, if Washington gave a damn that he is alive, rugged, has all his marbles, and would go to work tomorrow as a buck private if called upon.

In its outlook on elders, this country has failed pitifully to keep pace with the extension of life expectancy. The wonder drugs, sports, better living conditions and diets have boosted the life expectancy more than 20 years since 1900. But we still turn people out of their jobs at 65 or less. Employers still balk at hiring workers after 45. Age, somebody decided, is to be classed with leprosy but is not to be as sympathetically treated.

MacArthur at 75 is mentally younger than many men a third his age. He is spry, alert, surprisingly free of bitterness, supremely self-possessed in a time of epidemic uncertainty, and willing.

He is a burning oilwell, an abandoned mansion, a neglected book, an untapped reservoir in a drought area. Ah, it's a great pity.

But, at least, we can wish him a happy birthday.

And many, many more.

The quarter scores were 14-11, 35-28 and 49-42.

LaSalle chalked up 26 field goals to 16 for the Greenway Avenue quint. At the foul line, Fort Hill sank 20 of 37 shots to LaSalle's 16 of 24.

Phillips Stars In Ridgeley's 65-55 Triumph

Posts 21 In Second Half As Blackhawks Win 13th Over Lions

PIEDMONT, Jan. 25 — Ronnie Phillips went on a second half scoring spree to lead Ridgeley High School's undefeated Blackhawks to their 13th victory of the season over Piedmont High School's Lions here tonight. The score was 65-55.

Piedmont held the visitors to a 29-27 score in the first half but Phillips' sharpshooting in the third and fourth quarters decided the issue. The Ridgeley guard dumped in 10 field goals and 21 points after drawing a blank in the first half.

The triumph was the ninth in a row for Ridgeley in the 14-school Potomac Valley Conference. Piedmont, defending champions, in the P.V.C., went down to defeat for the sixth time in ten starts in conference play.

Fritz Showers slammed in 29 points to pace the Ridgeley scorers. His 12 field goals and five for six at the charity line upped his season total to 265 points in 13 games for a 20.4 average.

Clay Smith sparked the Piedmont attack with 23 points on seven baskets and nine conversions in 10 tries at the foul line. Eddie Orndorff garnered 14 points and Bobby Niland 10.

Ridgeley meshed 27 field goals in 52 tries for an average of .519 while Piedmont hit 18 times in 42 attempts.

Nino Valdes Stops Jack Flood In 7th

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 25 (AP)—Nino Valdes, No. one heavyweight contender, knocked out Jack Flood of Spokane, Wash., in 2:37 of the seventh round in a scheduled 10-rounder here tonight.

Valdes weighed 212 and Flood 204.

The leading contender, from Havana, Cuba, seemed sluggish. But twice in the first two rounds he floored his lighter but speedier opponent, the first time for an eight count. Flood, caught on the mouth by a right cross in the second, went down but grabbed the ropes and was on his feet without any count.

Going into the seventh, Valdes was leading in rounds, 5-1, under the West Virginia rating system of counting rounds only.

Gillman Named Coach Of Rams

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25 — (INS)—The Los Angeles Rams announced today that Sid Gillman, football coach at the University of Cincinnati, has been chosen head coach of the Rams.

The announcement was made by the Rams publicity director, Pete Rozelle, who is in New York City with the club's president Dan Reeves, and two directors, Ed Pauley and Fred Levy, Jr.

Rozelle called Los Angeles newspapers and others from New York to say that Pauley and Levy met with Gillman in Chicago earlier today and closed the deal for the college mentor to succeed former Rams coach Hamp Pool.

Rozelle said that after Pauley and Levy made the deal, they went to New York to join Reeves for the National League draft, which begins next Thursday.

Nino Valdes Stops Jack Flood In 7th

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 25 (AP)—Nino Valdes, No. one heavyweight contender, knocked out Jack Flood of Spokane, Wash., in 2:37 of the seventh round in a scheduled 10-rounder here tonight.

Valdes weighed 212 and Flood 204.

The leading contender, from Havana, Cuba, seemed sluggish. But twice in the first two rounds he floored his lighter but speedier opponent, the first time for an eight count. Flood, caught on the mouth by a right cross in the second, went down but grabbed the ropes and was on his feet without any count.

Going into the seventh, Valdes was leading in rounds, 5-1, under the West Virginia rating system of counting rounds only.

Allegany's Campers avenged an early-season defeat at the hands of Keyser High School last night, defeating the Golden Tornado on the local court, 55-46. The win was Allegany's third in a row and 7th in 12 starts.

Coach Walter "Bill" Bowers's quintet thus gained a split in the two game series, for the Keyser team had downed the Campers on the West Virginia hardwoods, 53-48, before the start of the WMI League season.

The victors led throughout the contest, but the charges of Coach Fred "Tack" Clark pulled within three points, 44-41, in the middle of the final period. Then Allegany pulled ahead, outscoring Keyser 9-5 in the remaining time.

Rodney Breedlove, leading city scorer, poured in 23 markers to bring his season's total to 198 points. He now leads Fort Hill's Galen McGregor by 29, for the Sentinel guard has 169 tallies.

Hyndman Edges Salisbury, 31-30

Hyndman's Hornets won a thriller from the visiting Salisbury High quintet last night, 31-30, in a very slow, deliberate basketball game which saw both teams display poor shooting.

The victors led throughout the contest, but their lead was threatened as Beachy, Salisbury substitute, was fouled as the game ended. With the score 31-30, he missed both foul shot attempts, and the Hornets won the game.

The victory was the eleventh in fifteen games for Hyndman, who played without the services of center Stahlman, who was out with a cold.

Fred Willison led both teams with nine markers. Charles Fate had eight tallies for the visitors.

Hyndman won the game at the foul line, even though they converted only seven of 21 attempts. Salisbury made but 4 of 20 foul shots.

Jets With Dick Groat In Lineup Play Old Germans Sunday

Philly Cagers Seek Revenge For Loss Here

Old G's At Oakland Tonight For March Of Dimes Contest

The Philadelphia Jets, featuring All-America Dick Groat, will play the Cumberland Old Germans in a return game on Sunday at 9 p. m., on SS. Peter and Paul court, Robert E. Pence, player-coach of the local pro quint, announced last night.

There was some doubt as to whether Groat could appear here with the Jets but Pence was notified by the booking agency of Philadelphia last night that the former Duke University great and Pittsburgh Pirates' shortstop definitely will play here with the Jets along with "Bud" Donnelly, former LaSalle College player, and several other ex-college stars.

Scored 51 Points Here

Groat, one of the most popular players ever to show here, scored 51 points here on January 9 as the Jets lost to the Old Germans by the score of 106-88. Dick dumped in 18 field goals and 15 out of 17 at the foul line for a record-breaking performance on the Fayette street court. Last season, Groat appeared here twice and rang up 25 and 37 points as the Washington Jets copped a pair from the Old G's, 89-68 and 92-66.

Pence was advised by phone yesterday that the Jets will have more height than they did in their first appearance here and they expect to crack the locals' five-game winning streak.

The January 9 game attracted 404 paying patrons and the local management hopes attendance for the return game will attract a greater crowd since it was necessary to hike the Philadelphia team's guarantee to bring it here the second time.

At Oakland Tonight

Tonight the Old Germans will journey to Oakland, Md., to play the West Virginia All-Stars in a March of Dimes benefit game on the Southern High School court at 8:15 o'clock.

Promoters of the game are anticipating a turnout of 1,200 persons for the contest. Last year 1,000 attended the benefit tilt.

The West Virginia quint will be headed by Fred Schaus, West Virginia University's head basketball coach, who was an all-time cage great at the Morgantown school before playing pro ball in the NBA.

Other members of the team that will oppose the Old G's are Mauro Palumbo, former Morris Harvey College ace; "Pete" Parker, of West Virginia State; Jack Hines and Mack Isner, ex-Mountaineer stars, and Charley Huggins.

There will be a preliminary game at 7 o'clock between the Southern and Northern high Alumni quints.

Thomas Hosts Coalton, Seeks 8th Win Tonight

Thomas High School's Bears will be angling for their ninth win of the season tonight when they play host to Coalton High School of Randolph county.

Coach Ed Supak's Tucker Countians have won eight games in 10 starts, including a 78-48 decision over Coalton.

Argentine-Bred Cascanuez Wins Hialeah Event

Takes Florida Gold Purse Before 17,841

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 25 (AP)—Charfran Stable's Cascanuez, launching his winter schedule, was an impressive winner of the Florida Gold Purse before 17,841 at Hialeah Park today. The Argentine-bred 7-year-old son of Partab scored by 3½ lengths from L. Chesler's longshot, Assuan, under a fine ride by Robert Ussery.

W. L. Jones' Lebanon Lad was third, a length back of Assuan and three spans before C. Mahlon Kline's Kaster, the favorite, which had a bit of trouble in the running but not enough to account for his dull showing. Nine ran in the mile and a furlong turf event, a stepping stone to the $25,000 Bougainville on Feb. 16 and also the $50,000 Hialeah Turf Handicap on March 2.

Cascanuez, under 121 pounds, turned the mile and a furlong in 1:50 2/5 on a course that had been drenched by overnight rains. He paid $7.50, $5.10 and $4.30. Assuan returned $12.20 and $7.00 and Lebanon Lad was $5.80 to show.

The Argentinian, which had won his last two races on the turf at Pimlico and Suffolk Downs in 1954 in record time, was rated smartly in fourth place midway of the backstretch. Thereafter, he moved to the leaders with eagerness and was drawing clear through the final drive. He is rated one of the best grass racers now in training.

Cascanuez, early in 1954, failed to win in $3,500 claiming races, but he suddenly found himself in Ohio and from there went on to become a stakes winner against topnotch company.

Sind, a first-time starter, won the first race paying $29.30 and Six Bills, $10.90, took the second to make up a $152.80 daily double.

Hall Of Fame Votes Will Be Counted Today

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—The annual baseball Hall of Fame election will be held tomorrow with Joe DiMaggio a likely candidate to join the ranks at Cooperstown, N.Y.

Since mid-January the 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Assn. have been mailing their sealed ballots to be placed under lock in the office of Commissioner Ford Frick. Tomorrow the ballots will be counted.

DiMaggio missed by only 14 votes last year when Rabbit Maranville, Bill Terry and Bill Dickey were elected. The former New York Yankee centerfielder received mentio on 175 of the 252 ballots, just short of the required three-fourths vote.

Carter And Woods Fight At Spokane

SPOKANE, Wash. Jan 25 (AP)—Lightweight champion Jimmy Carter goes back into action tomorrow night for the first time since regaining the title last fall and is a heavy favorite to handle young Bobby Woods.

But the 31-year-old champion, whose title will not be at stake in the scheduled 10-rounder, is figured to get a brisk workout from the local boy who is tough, eager and 10 years younger.

Woods went 10 rounds with featherweight champion Sandy Saddler just six weeks ago and the referee had the fight even until the last round. Saddler landed a jarring right in the 10th and won a unanimous decision in the non-title bout.

Top Teams To Clash In Women's Circuit

The leaders and runners-up will clash in tonight's feature match in the Allegany County Ladies' Shuffleboard League when Clingerman's shoots it out with the Frostburg American Legion at Clingerman's.

Frostburg Legion is tied with the Woodmen of the World for second place, each team having won 24 and lost 15. Clingerman's owns a 29-10 record and leads by five games.

Other matches tonight are: Pocahontas at Cas Taylor's, Woodmen of the World at Cresaptown Firemen, Golden Nugget of Frostburg at Hi Dee Club and Purple Heart Club at the Stadium Inn, Frostburg.

Joey Giardello Fights Andrews In Norfolk Ring

Philly Middleweight Choice In 10-Rounder

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 25 (AP)—Joey Giardello, fresh from tangling with the police and boxing authorities, will do his fighting in the ring tomorrow night in a renewed bid for a shot at Bobo Olson's middleweight title.

The 24-year-old Philadelphian was all set for a fight with Olson before he ran afoul of the law and boxing officials, but he's squared his accounts with them and is ready to take on Al Andrews of Superior, Wis., in a 10-rounder tomorrow.

The fight will be telecast nationally over the Columbia Broadcasting System network at 10 p.m., EST.

The bout is being put on for the benefit of the polio fund's March of Dimes.

Giardello is an odds-on choice to win, based on the 23-year-old Andrews' recent showings. Joe has won 52 fights, lost 11 and taken part in five draws in his career. He has knocked out 17 opponents and been stopped twice himself, not since 1950, however.

Andrews has won 32, lost nine and fought five draws.

Giardello is bound to be a bit rusty since he hasn't fought professionally for four months. His last bout was against Ralph (Tiger) Jones, who beat Sugar Ray Robinson. Giardello outpointed Jones in their first last Sept. 24. Many fans didn't like the decision.

Since then, Giardello has undergone a knee operation.

How Times Change

In 1891 the 2-year-old His Highness made headlines by becoming the first Thoroughbred to win $100,000 in a single season. During 1954 no less than 15 horses won amounts ranging from $159,425 for Hasty Road to $328,700 for Determine.

Summer Tan Is Out Of Florida Races

MIAMI, Jan. 25 (AP)—(INS)—Mrs. Russell A. Firestone's Summer Tan, one of the top-rated winter book favorites for the Kentucky Derby, today was declared out of the $100,000 Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah and withdrawn from all other Florida races.

The announcement of the three-year-old colt's withdrawal came from Mrs. Firestone in a meeting with Hialeah president John C. Clark.

Mrs. Firestone said that Summer Tan has not progressed fast enough in his training to permit him to be ready for the Flamingo on February 26.

Jets With Dick Groat In Lineup Play Old Germans Sunday

Philly Cagers Seek Revenge For Loss Here

Old G's At Oakland Tonight For March Of Dimes Contest

The Philadelphia Jets, featuring All-America Dick Groat, will play the Cumberland Old Germans in a return game on Sunday at 9 p. m., on SS. Peter and Paul court, Robert E. Pence, player-coach of the local pro quint, announced last night.

There was some doubt as to whether Groat could appear here with the Jets but Pence was notified by the booking agency of Philadelphia last night that the former Duke University great and Pittsburgh Pirates' shortstop definitely will play here with the Jets along with "Bud" Donnelly, former La-Salle College player, and several other ex-college stars.

Scored 51 Points Here

Groat, one of the most popular players ever to show here, scored 51 points here on January 9 as the Jets lost to the Old Germans by the score of 106-88. Dick dumped in 18 field goals and 15 out of 17 at the foul line for a record-breaking performance on the Fayette street court. Last season, Groat appeared here twice and rang up 25 and 37 points as the Washington Jets copped a pair from the Old G's, 89-68 and 92-66.

Pence was advised by phone yesterday that the Jets will have more height than they did in their first appearance here and they expect to crack the locals' five-game winning streak.

The January 9 game attracted 404 paying patrons and the local management hopes attendance for the return game will attract a greater crowd since it was necessary to hike the Philadelphia team's guarantee to bring it here the second time.

At Oakland Tonight

Tonight the Old Germans will journey to Oakland, Md., to play the West Virginia All-Stars in a March of Dimes benefit game on the Southern High School court at 8:15 o'clock.

Promoters of the game are anticipating a turnout of 1,200 persons for the contest. Last year 1,000 attended the benefit tilt.

The West Virginia quint will be headed by Fred Schaus, West Virginia University's head basketball coach, who was an all-time cage great at the Morgantown school before playing pro ball in the NBA.

Other members of the team that will oppose the Old G's are Mauro Palumbo, former Morris Harvey College ace; "Pete" Parker, of West Virginia State; Jack Hines and Mack Isner, ex-Mountaineer stars, and Charley Huggins.

There will be a preliminary game at 7 o'clock between the Southern and Northern high Alumni quints.

Thomas Hosts Coalton, Seeks 8th Win Tonight

Thomas High School's Bears will be angling for their ninth win of the season tonight when they play host to Coalton High School of Randolph county.

Coach Ed Supak's Tucker Countians have won eight games in 10 starts, including a 78-48 decision over Coalton.

Argentine-Bred Cascanuez Wins Hialeah Event

Takes Florida Gold Purse Before 17,841

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 25 (AP)—Charfran Stable's Cascanuez, launching his winter schedule, was an impressive winner of the Florida Gold Purse before 17,841 at Hialeah Park today. The Argentine-bred 7-year-old son of Partab scored by 3½ lengths from L. Chesler's longshot, Assuan, under a fine ride by Robert Ussery.

W. L. Jones' Lebanon Lad was third, a length back of Assuan and three spans before C. Mahlon Kline's Kaster, the favorite, which had a bit of trouble in the running but not enough to account for his dull showing. Nine ran in the mile and a furlong turf event, a stepping stone to the $25,000 Bougainville on Feb. 16 and also the $50,000 Hialeah Turf Handicap on March 2.

Cascanuez, under 121 pounds, turned the mile and a furlong in 1:50 2/5 on a course that had been drenched by overnight rains. He paid $7.50, $5.10 and $4.30. Assuan returned $12.20 and $7.00 and Lebanon Lad was $5.80 to show.

The Argentinian, which had won his last two races on the turf at Pimlico and Suffolk Downs in 1954 in record time, was rated smartly in fourth place midway of the backstretch. Thereafter, he moved to the leaders with eagerness and was drawing clear through the final drive. He is rated one of the best grass racers now in training.

Cascanuez, early in 1954, failed to win in $3,500 claiming races, but he suddenly found himself in Ohio and from there went on to become a stakes winner against topnotch company.

Sind, a first-time starter, won the first race paying $29.30 and Six Bills, $10.90, took the second to make up a $152.80 daily double.

Hall Of Fame Votes Will Be Counted Today

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—The annual baseball Hall of Fame election will be held tomorrow with Joe DiMaggio a likely candidate to join the ranks at Cooperstown, N.Y.

Since mid-January the 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Assn. have been mailing their sealed ballots to be placed under lock in the office of Commissioner Ford Frick. Tomorrow the ballots will be counted.

DiMaggio missed by only 14 votes last year when Rabbit Maranville, Bill Terry and Bill Dickey were elected. The former New York Yankee centerfielder received mentio on 175 of the 252 ballots, just short of the required three-fourths vote.

Carter And Woods Fight At Spokane

SPOKANE, Wash. Jan 25 (AP)—Lightweight champion Jimmy Carter goes back into action tomorrow night for the first time since regaining the title last fall and is a heavy favorite to handle young Bobby Woods.

But the 31-year-old champion, whose title will not be at stake in the scheduled 10-rounder, is figured to get a brisk workout from the local boy who is tough, eager and 10 years younger.

Woods went 10 rounds with featherweight champion Sandy Saddler just six weeks ago and the referee had the fight even until the last round. Saddler landed a jarring right in the 10th and won a unanimous decision in the non-title bout.

Top Teams To Clash In Women's Circuit

The leaders and runners-up will clash in tonight's feature match in the Allegany County Ladies' Shuffleboard League when Clingerman's shoots it out with the Frostburg American Legion at Clingerman's.

Frostburg Legion is tied with the Woodmen of the World for second place, each team having won 24 and lost 15. Clingerman's owns a 29-10 record and leads by five games.

Other matches tonight are: Pocahontas at Cas Taylor's, Woodmen of the World at Cresaptown Firemen, Golden Nugget of Frostburg at Hi Dee Club and Purple Heart Club at the Stadium Inn, Frostburg.

Joey Giardello Fights Andrews In Norfolk Ring

Philly Middleweight Choice In 10-Rounder

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 25 (AP)—Joey Giardello, fresh from tangling with the police and boxing authorities, will do his fighting in the ring tomorrow night in a renewed bid for a shot at Bobo Olson's middleweight title.

The 24-year-old Philadelphian was all set for a fight with Olson before he ran afoul of the law and boxing officials, but he's squared his accounts with them and is ready to take on Al Andrews of Superior, Wis., in a 10-rounder tomorrow.

The fight will be telecast nationally over the Columbia Broadcasting System network at 10 p.m., EST.

The bout is being put on for the benefit of the polio fund's March of Dimes.

Giardello is an odds-on choice to win, based on the 23-year-old Andrews' recent showings. Joe has won 52 fights, lost 11 and taken part in five draws in his career. He has knocked out 17 opponents and been stopped twice himself, not since 1950, however.

Andrews has won 32, lost nine and fought five draws.

Giardello is bound to be a bit rusty since he hasn't fought professionally for four months. His last bout was against Ralph (Tiger) Jones, who beat Sugar Ray Robinson. Giardello outpointed Jones in their first last Sept. 24. Many fans didn't like the decision.

Since then, Giardello has undergone a knee operation.

How Times Change

In 1891 the 2-year-old His Highness made headlines by becoming the first Thoroughbred to win $100,000 in a single season. During 1954 no less than 15 horses won amounts ranging from $159,425 for Hasty Road to $328,700 for Determine.

Summer Tan Is Out Of Florida Races

MIAMI, Jan. 25 (AP)—(INS)—Mrs. Russell A. Firestone's Summer Tan, one of the top-rated winter book favorites for the Kentucky Derby, today was declared out of the $100,000 Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah and withdrawn from all other Florida races.

The announcement of the three-year-old colt's withdrawal came from Mrs. Firestone in a meeting with Hialeah president John C. Clark.

Mrs. Firestone said that Summer Tan has not progressed fast enough in his training to permit him to be ready for the Flamingo on February 26.

Frostburg Housing Project Shows Steady Progress

Here are six of the partially completed houses of a building project, started last fall in Frostburg. The group will consist of a row of 12 houses on the south side of Washington Street, known as Washington Heights, near Beall High School. The dwellings are being constructed under the management of Chester Stewart, who stated that three will be ready for occupancy February 15, and three by March 1. He also stated that ground is to be broken April 1 for six more residences, all of which will contain three bedrooms, bath, combination dinette-kitchen, large living room, with the garage in part of the basement. Each residence will have a patio, landscaping and concrete walkway. The mayor and city commissioners have already placed new water service lines and will resurface the street from Sleeman Street to the highway leading from Route 40 to the main entrance of Beall High School. With the completion of the resurfacing work, Washington Street will provide a new street approach from the center of Frostburg to Beall High School, eliminating the necessity of school pupils using Route 40 highway, one of the busiest thoroughfares in the community. Stewart stated that the opening of the first new homes, February 15, will be featured by a public inspection of a completely furnished house.

State Turns Back On Plea To Aid Garrett Co. Needy

BALTIMORE, Jan. 25 (AP) — The State Department of Public Welfare said today it had turned back a plea for emergency help for 250 destitute families in Garrett County because it has no funds for such a purpose.

Ervin Roth, one of Garrett County's commissioners, estimated the number of families in critical situations had risen from 125 to 250 in the past two weeks.

State officials estimate there are 1,200 to 1,500 unemployed in the county, which has a population of about 21,200.

Roth and the other commissioners have requested both State and federal help in meeting the emergency, suggesting the county could put up $10,000 for some kind of emergency work program if it could get matching funds.

Thomas J. S. Waxter, State director of public welfare, explained his department does not have funds for such projects.

The department does not normally provide help for those who are employable but have no jobs. It has from time to time carried out small emergency programs affording employables some help for not more than 30 days. The last time was in the Baltimore area in November.

Roth said the county commissioners in the past three weeks have been besieged by appeals for residents needing work and food.

They are considering a project making extensive use of manual labor on the county roads for two days a week.

Garrett County is in the throes of economic troubles because of the deterioration of the coal mining and lumber industries in Western Maryland.

Some officials reckon unemployment there is worse than at the height of the depression in the 1930's.

About 4.5 per cent of the population—unemployables—already is receiving some kind of public assistance such as aid for dependent children, aid for the blind and handicapped. This is the highest "dependency ratio" of any county in the state.

Applications for unemployment compensation have doubled in the past year. Week before last unemployment compensation checks were paid out to 175 persons at the Oakland office and there were 40 new applications. The previous week there were 328 checks. Through much of 1954 this number ran between 300 and 400. Many, of course, long since have exhausted their 26 weeks of benefits under the unemployment benefit program.

Railroad Tax Case Enters Third Day In Keyser Court

KEYSER—The tax appeal case of the Western Maryland Railway Company, being heard in Mineral County Circuit Court, enters its third day this morning.

G. W. Haworth, vice president and general manager of operations for the company, spent all of Monday and almost all of yesterday on the witness stand, outlining operation costs, profits and losses and making statistical comparisons over a period of years.

At the conclusion of his testimony and cross examination yesterday, Judge Ernest A. See interrupted proceedings to ask several pertinent questions.

He noted that the Western Maryland no longer operates a passenger station and freight station in Keyser, and that the railroad's facilities at Elk Garden, also in Mineral County, were abandoned years ago. He also brought out that Keyser is still mentioned in the levy as having Western Maryland Railway property here, but there has been no local activity on that part of the line for years.

It was also noted that the company had previously reached Keyser over a bridge from McCoole, Md., and had carried passenger and freight service into Keyser. The bridge is now gone, witnesses and attorneys acknowledged, and the Keyser operation has been abandoned for a number of years. It was further put into the record that tracks on the Elk Garden branch were abandoned some years ago and there is no Western Maryland operating property in either place now.

Paul Holland, assistant comptroller for the railroad, followed Haworth to the witness stand. He furnished pertinent information on the company's finances during the period from 1949 to 1953 and made reference to an annual deficit in operating revenues in that period.

Yesterday's cross-examination of Haworth was conducted by R. E. Maguson, Charleston, assistant attorney general for West Virginia.

Eugene S. Williams, chairman of the board and chief counsel for the railroad, is presenting the company's case assisted by James H. Swadley, Jr., of Keyser, resident attorney for the railroad.

Haworth was questioned on matters that concerned the heavy expenses of operation through the use of multiple motor power on trains, including helpers on several divisions and branch lines.

Haworth also testified concerning expense on the Cumberland to Connellsville stretch pointing out that it costs the company 10 per cent extra for helpers service and labor. He said the cost on the Cumberland to Hagerstown line is only nine per cent, while the added cost on the Cumberland to Elkins line is 13 per cent.

Maguson questioned Haworth on the present and future business possibilities in coal and railroad service in West Virginia prior to a noon recess.

Williams' opening statement yesterday was a request that the record of a tax appeal before Judge Ernest A. See in 1952 be made a part of the court record. Judge See is also presiding at the current court session.

Following an objection by Maguson, a compromise was reached whereby the 1952 opinion could be used, while not being wholly admitted to the court record.

Judge See earlier granted the appeal from an assessment of $11,250,000, set by the State Board of Public Works last July on the carrier's Classes III and IV, or tangible, properties.

The action was filed in Mineral County, because the biggest portion of the Western Maryland's 1954 assessment — $3,829,000 worth — lies in the Eastern Panhandle county.

Haworth said the 9-county area served by the Western Maryland is extremely costly for railroad operations — laced as it is with steep grades which are difficult to maintain.

Haworth said many businesses operating in the area in past years have disappeared completely and others are gradually fading out. The Western Maryland no longer serves the companies or the communities that it once was called on to serve.

State Turns Back On Plea To Aid Garrett Co. Needy

Railroad Tax Case Enters Third Day In Keyser Court

KEYSER—The tax appeal case of the Western Maryland Railway Company, being heard in Mineral County Circuit Court, enters its third day this morning.

G. W. Haworth, vice president and general manager of operations for the company, spent all of Monday and almost all of yesterday on the witness stand, outlining operation costs, profits and losses and making statistical comparisons over a period of years.

At the conclusion of his testimony and cross examination yesterday, Judge Ernest A. See interrupted proceedings to ask several pertinent questions.

He noted that the Western Maryland no longer operates a passenger station and freight station in Keyser, and that the railroad's facilities at Elk Garden, also in Mineral County, were abandoned years ago. He also brought out that Keyser is still mentioned in the levy as having Western Maryland Railway property here, but there has been no local activity on that part of the line for years.

It was also noted that the company had previously reached Keyser over a bridge from McCoole, Md., and had carried passenger and freight service into Keyser. The bridge is now gone, witnesses and attorneys acknowledged, and the Keyser operation has been abandoned for a number of years. It was further put into the record that tracks on the Elk Garden branch were abandoned some years ago and there is no Western Maryland operating property in either place now.

Paul Holland, assistant comptroller for the railroad, followed Haworth to the witness stand. He furnished pertinent information on the company's finances during the period from 1949 to 1953 and made reference to an annual deficit in operating revenues in that period.

Yesterday's cross-examination of Haworth was conducted by R. E. Maguson, Charleston, assistant attorney general for West Virginia.

Eugene S. Williams, chairman of the board and chief counsel for the railroad, is presenting the company's case assisted by James H. Swadley, Jr., of Keyser, resident attorney for the railroad.

Haworth was questioned on matters that concerned the heavy expenses of operation through the use of multiple motor power on trains, including helpers on several divisions and branch lines.

Haworth also testified concerning expense on the Cumberland to Connellsville stretch pointing out that it costs the company 10 per cent extra for helpers service and labor. He said the cost on the Cumberland to Hagerstown line is only nine per cent, while the added cost on the Cumberland to Elkins line is 13 per cent.

Maguson questioned Haworth on the present and future business possibilities in coal and railroad service in West Virginia prior to a noon recess.

Williams' opening statement yesterday was a request that the record of a tax appeal before Judge Ernest A. See in 1952 be made a part of the court record. Judge See is also presiding at the current court session.

Following an objection by Maguson, a compromise was reached whereby the 1952 opinion could be used, while not being wholly admitted to the court record.

Judge See earlier granted the appeal from an assessment of $11,250,000, set by the State Board of Public Works last July on the carrier's Classes III and IV, or tangible, properties.

The action was filed in Mineral County, because the biggest portion of the Western Maryland's 1954 assessment — $3,829,000 worth — lies in the Eastern Panhandle county.

Haworth said the 9-county area served by the Western Maryland is extremely costly for railroad operations — laced as it is with steep grades which are difficult to maintain.

Haworth said many businesses operating in the area in past years have disappeared completely and others are gradually fading out. The Western Maryland no longer serves the companies or the communities that it once was called on to serve.

Delegation Visits W.Va. Congressmen

A delegation of seven from the Knobley and Sunnyside Churchs of the Brethren went to Washington Friday to express to congressmen their Christian convictions on Universal Military Training and conscription.

Calling at the offices of West Virginia's Senator Harley M. Kilgore and Matthew M. Neely, Representative Harley O. Staggers and others, they expressed their faith in a positive peace program, based on Christian love and concern for the welfare of every human being, as holding the greatest possibilities for working out world difficulties by means of negotiation rather than guns. They asked the congressmen to work hard for the improvement of reciprocal trade and for greater support of the technical assistance program of the United Nations.

Those making the trip to Washington were Evers Ours, Glen McCoy, Nelson Shears, Otho Rogers, Jr., Mederick Leatherman, Jimmy Rotruck, and Rev. Owen Stultz.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Not everyone has opportunity or reason to learn a foreign language, but everyone whose native tongue is English should speak it well. Words are the tools of expression. Those you use in conversation tell others that you are interesting, intelligent, alert—or they betray your carelessness. The larger your vocabulary and the better your command of grammar, the more brightly you express yourself — the more surely you will charm your audience.

Of course, there are many stumbling blocks in the English language. Some words have several meanings. Many are used as different parts of speech, with or without corresponding change in the accented syllable. Some have alternate pronunciations. Learn these nuances, to be correct in your use of words.

Word Study

An ex'pert is one who has special skill or knowledge. The same word, accented on the final syllable (ex-pert') means to be skillful as a result of practice. The first is a noun, the latter an adjective use.

The verb pro-duce' (to bring forth or yield) and the noun, produce (usually referring to provisions or farm products collectively) offer another example of dual usage. A third instance: min'ute and minute'—the first a noun denoting time, and the second an adjective descriptive of size (small or trifling).

Sometimes a word has two pronunciations, both correct but one preferred. The word "adult" is one example, the word "detail" another. While ad'ult is correct, a-dult' is preferred. Likewise, you may say de'tail, although de-tail' is the favored pronunciation.

Look-Alikes

Words that look alike are often pronounced quite differently when syllables are added. Finite, meaning to have definite or definable limits, is pronounced fi'nite, with both "i's" like that of the word "ice". In the more familiar adjective, infinite (meaning unlimited or immeasurable), each "i" is like that of the word "ill".

Somewhat confusing? Well, our English language has that reputation! You won't be confused twice if you consult a dictionary whenever you hear a word pronounced differently than you say it.

Tomorrow—The "'news in your life.

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice — one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success — by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness, and lack of proper modulation. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin, plus stamped self-addressed envelope.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Not everyone has opportunity or reason to learn a foreign language, but everyone whose native tongue is English should speak it well. Words are the tools of expression. Those you use in conversation tell others that you are interesting, intelligent, alert—or they betray your carelessness. The larger your vocabulary and the better your command of grammar, the more brightly you express yourself — the more surely you will charm your audience.

Of course, there are many stumbling blocks in the English language. Some words have several meanings. Many are used as different parts of speech, with or without corresponding change in the accented syllable. Some have alternate pronunciations. Learn these nuances, to be correct in your use of words.

Word Study

An ex'pert is one who has special skill or knowledge. The same word, accented on the final syllable (ex-pert') means to be skillful as a result of practice. The first is a noun, the latter an adjective use.

The verb pro-duce' (to bring forth or yield) and the noun, prod-uce (usually referring to provisions or farm products collectively) offer another example of dual usage. A third instance: min'ute and mi-nute'—the first a noun denoting time, and the second an adjective descriptive of size (small or trifling).

Sometimes a word has two pronunciations, both correct but one preferred. The word "adult" is one example, the word "detail" another. While ad'ult is correct, a-dult' is preferred. Likewise, you may say de'tail, although de-tail' is the favored pronunciation.

Look-Alikes

Words that look alike are often pronounced quite differently when syllables are added. Finite, meaning to have definite or definable limits, is pronounced fi'nite, with both "i's" like that of the word "ice". In the more familiar adjective, infinite (meaning unlimited or immeasurable), each "i" is like that of the word "ill".

Somewhat confusing? Well, our English language has that reputation! You won't be confused twice if you consult a dictionary whenever you hear a word pronounced differently than you say it.

Tomorrow—The '"news in your life.

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice — one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success — by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness, and lack of proper modulation. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin, plus stamped self-addressed envelope.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: YOU BEAT YOUR PATE, AND FANCY-WIT WILL COME; KNOCK AS YOU PLEASE, THERE'S NOBODY AT HOME — POPE.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

Service Planned For Lon Dicken

A funeral service for Lon Dicken, of Bowman's Addition, who died after falling into a deep ditch and lying in a foot of water for about eight hours as the temperature dropped to 16 degrees early yesterday morning, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Kight Funeral Home.

Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church, will officiate and interment will be in Zion Memorial Burial Park.

The 84-year-old man was found dead about 8 a. m. yesterday by David McCullough, 17-year-old Fort Hill High School student who was on his way to classes.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, attributed death to exposure and said Dicken generally visited the nearby Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Hall at night.

Deming surmised that the elderly man miscalculated the whereabouts of the ditch by about ten feet and fell in. Dicken suffered no injuries in the tumble, he said.

County Board Hears Complaint About Damage

Mrs. Isabelle Butcher, who resides along Koontz Run in the Lonaconing section, appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to protest work done by the county in the stream which she claims is damaging her property.

The county gave a contract to a private construction firm to dredge the stream following a flood which occurred during the "Hazel" storm of October. Mrs. Butcher said that as a result of the dredging and piling of rocks and dirt along one side of the bank recent heavy rain has caused the land adjacent to her property to be eroded to a depth of three or four feet.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, said he has been attempting to get permission from a property owner just above the Butcher residence to cut away a curved section of the stream bank which would straighten the stream bed and prevent the erosion of the land along Mrs. Butcher's property.

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson told Mrs. Butcher that if the county had done work which caused the condition she cited then it was up to the county commissioners to remedy the situation. He told Mrs. Butcher that the work had been done prior to his taking office in December.

Commissioner William H. Lemmert told Mrs. Butcher that the county was willing to straighten the stream and replace the section of her land which had been eroded by the swollen stream recently. Mrs. Butcher did not appear satisfied with the solution presented by the board.

Mrs. Butcher further claimed that a large tree on her property had been torn down by the shovel operator when the work of dredging the stream was under way. She also claimed that no county road official was present when the private contractor was doing the work. The board promised definite action within a week or so.

Two Union Men Favoring Moyer

Two labor union spokesmen went on record Monday before the Mayor and Council favoring awarding the contract to Moyer Brothers of Altoona, Pa., for the local sewage treatment plant.

Harry Hickle, representative of Local 37 B Operating Engineers, said he felt in view of the acute labor situation, he would like to see the contract awarded at once. Council did award Moyer the contract later in the day on his bid of $1,531,006.

Hickle said the Pennsylvania concern had promised 100 per cent cooperation with labor during visits here and added there are 110 members in his union and a large number are out of work.

Hickle claimed that the Moyer concern had agreed to "go along" with all local crafts and, Hickle claimed, offered to employe most of the supervisory staff here.

Robert T. Weaver, of Local 616, Laborer's Union, said he agreed with Hickle and that Moyer had also indicated the firm would like to buy what material it could for the project from local sources.

Market Declines At Start, Then Regains Lost Ground

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP) — The stock market declined at the start today and then turned around neatly and began to climb again.

By the close, some sections of the list showed gains of a couple of points or more while others were down fractionally.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed the session unchanged at $152.80. The industrials gained 50 cents, the rails lost 50 cents and the utilities were down 20 cents. However, 610 stocks declined against 385 which advanced.

Volume mounted to 3,230,000 shares against 2,910,000 yesterday. The tape ran behind during the selling in the morning and also during the rally in the afternoon.

The aircrafts led the recovery movement. A standout was General Dynamics, up 5½ at 91⅝. United Aircraft and Lockheed added nearly 3. Textiles also were strong, with American Woolen, J. P. Stevens, Textron and Burlington Mills active and higher.

The steels improved toward the close. U. S. Steel announced a dividend increase and a 2-for-1 stock split after the close—obviously a well-kept secret, for the stock gained only ½ at 72½ during the day. If traders had had an inkling of the move, a sharp price advance would have occurred and trading would have been far greater than the 27,500 shares that did change hands.

Daily Bridge Lesson — by Barclay

GAUDY BLACKWOODING

THERE is no more gaudy and glamorous way to use the Blackwood convention than with the version of it which includes cue-bidding of the opponents' suit. A player who had cue-bid such a suit asks, with his later call of 4-No Trumps, how many aces his partner has in the other three suits, since that order of bidding clearly indicates a blank in the hostile one. Also his ensuing call of 5-No Trumps inquires about the kings in those other three suits. In reply, the partner must not count the king of the opponents' suit if he has it.

County Board Hears Complaint About Damage

Mrs. Isabelle Butcher, who resides along Koontz Run in the Lonaconing section, appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to protest work done by the county in the stream which she claims is damaging her property.

The county gave a contract to a private construction firm to dredge the stream following a flood which occurred during the "Hazel" storm of October. Mrs. Butcher said that as a result of the dredging and piling of rocks and dirt along one side of the bank recent heavy rain has caused the land adjacent to her property to be eroded to a depth of three or four feet.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, said he has been attempting to get permission from a property owner just above the Butcher residence to cut away a curved section of the stream bank which would straighten the stream bed and prevent the erosion of the land along Mrs. Butcher's property.

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson told Mrs. Butcher that if the county had done work which caused the condition she cited then it was up to the county commissioners to remedy the situation. He told Mrs. Butcher that the work had been done prior to his taking office in December.

Commissioner William H. Lemmert told Mrs. Butcher that the county was willing to straighten the stream and replace the section of her land which had been eroded by the swollen stream recently. Mrs. Butcher did not appear satisfied with the solution presented by the board.

Mrs. Butcher further claimed that a large tree on her property had been torn down by the shovel operator when the work of dredging the stream was under way. She also claimed that no county road official was present when the private contractor was doing the work. The board promised definite action within a week or so.

Two Union Men Favoring Moyer

Two labor union spokesmen went on record Monday before the Mayor and Council favoring awarding the contract to Moyer Brothers of Altoona, Pa., for the local sewage treatment plant.

Harry Hickle, representative of Local 37 B Operating Engineers, said he felt in view of the acute labor situation, he would like to see the contract awarded at once. Council did award Moyer the contract later in the day on his bid of $1,531,006.

Hickle said the Pennsylvania concern had promised 100 per cent cooperation with labor during visits here and added there are 110 members in his union and a large number are out of work.

Hickle claimed that the Moyer concern had agreed to "go along" with all local crafts and, Hickle claimed, offered to employe most of the supervisory staff here.

Robert T. Weaver, of Local 616, Laborer's Union, said he agreed with Hickle and that Moyer had also indicated the firm would like to buy what material it could for the project from local sources.

Market Declines At Start, Then Regains Lost Ground

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP) — The stock market declined at the start today and then turned around neatly and began to climb again.

By the close, some sections of the list showed gains of a couple of points or more while others were down fractionally.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed the session unchanged at $152.80. The industrials gained 50 cents, the rails lost 50 cents and the utilities were down 20 cents. However, 610 stocks declined against 385 which advanced.

Volume mounted to 3,230,000 shares against 2,910,000 yesterday. The tape ran behind during the selling in the morning and also during the rally in the afternoon.

The aircrafts led the recovery movement. A standout was General Dynamics, up 5½ at 91⅝. United Aircraft and Lockheed added nearly 3. Textiles also were strong, with American Woolen, J. P. Stevens, Textron and Burlington Mills active and higher.

The steels improved toward the close. U. S. Steel announced a dividend increase and a 2-for-1 stock split after the close—obviously a well-kept secret, for the stock gained only ½ at 72½ during the day. If traders had had an inkling of the move, a sharp price advance would have occurred and trading would have been far greater than the 27,500 shares that did change hands.

Daily Bridge Lesson — by Barclay

GAUDY BLACKWOODING

THERE is no more gaudy and glamorous way to use the Blackwood convention than with the version of it which includes cue-bidding of the opponents' suit. A player who had cue-bid such a suit asks, with his later call of 4-No Trumps, how many aces his partner has in the other three suits, since that order of bidding clearly indicates a blank in the hostile one. Also his ensuing call of 5-No Trumps inquires about the kings in those other three suits. In reply, the partner must not count the king of the opponents' suit if he has it.

Delegates Back Resolution On Toll Gate House

Seek Preservation Of 1833 Structure

A resolution requesting the State of Maryland to purchase and maintain as a historical monument the toll gate house on Route 40 six miles west of Cumberland was unanimously adopted by the House of Delegates yesterday.

The vote on the measure, House Resolution No. 8, was announced early last night by Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation.

Delegate See said the resolution was adopted shortly after it received a favorable report from the House Ways and Means Committee.

It was introduced last Friday by the Allegany County Delegation, which is anxious to see the toll gate house, the first built for the National, or Cumberland Road, preserved for posterity.

The resolution, the legislators said, now goes to Governor McKeldin and the Board of Public Works.

Except for markers and signs, the toll gate house, erected about 1833, is one of the few remaining original structures of the highway which became the first national road, and played a vital part in the development of the West in the first part of the 19th Century.

Workers in Leatherwood, near Wheeling, W. Va., last week were razing one of the few remaining toll houses on Route 40.

The building, believed to be the last of its kind along the old National Road in West Virginia, is to be leveled to make way for a motel.

TB Association Asks Donors To Help Keep Files Cleared

The Allegany-Garrett Tuberculosis Association this week mailed out a number of reminders designed to help wind up its 1954 Christmas Seal sale and to eliminate duplications in its files.

The letters pointed out that during the holiday season, some contributors may have forgotten to send in funds for Christmas seals.

The association asked those who received the follow up letters to check and mail back the forms, which have spaces to indicate if no seals were received, the enclosure of a contribution, or a request to recheck files since contributions have already been mailed.

Glenn K. Davis, Seal Sales chairman, said constant checking of files is the only way the association has to keep the cost of the seal sale down.

He said every effort is made to eliminate duplications and that the association wants to know when any contributor reecives more than one Seal letter.

Officials pointed out that seal letters now cost 12 cents each and that the only way to keep the cost at or below that point is to keep files up to date.

To date, the 1954 Seal Sale has brought in $16,750.

This, officials said, has been the most successful campaign ever held.

But J. Leo Delaney, president, said the association will need $20,000 to finance its program in Allegany and Garrett County during the coming year.

The drive to date has exceeded the 1953 returns of $15,893.20, and officials expect late contributors to provide at least part of the additional funds needed.

Students of the high schools of Allegany County will be given an opportunity to compete for a four-year scholarship in a plan being launched by General Motors.

Ridgeley Food Registration Is Set Today

Enrollment Covers February Supplies

Registration for surplus food commodities in Ridgeley and immediate area, will be held today and tomorrow at the American Legion home there.

According to Roland Showers of Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, the post home will be open from 10:30 a. m. until 5:30 p. m. today and tomorrow, so all eligible persons can register. This registration is to cover the February distribution of surplus commodities explained.

Each eligible family must register for each months distribution. Each registration is good for only the next months' supply of commodities he explained.

Under the Mineral County distribution and registration program, people who have once been certified can register with the Legion registrars on the designated days. New registrants, those who have never enrolled before, must be interviewed and certified by Miss Lucille Peters of the Welfare Department.

Miss Peters will be in Ridgeley, at the Legion Home, Thursday from 1 to 5:30 p. m. to certify new registrants.

Those who registered either for December or January, or both, and who wish food in February, should report either today or tomorrow, Showers explained.

In December, 91 Ridgeley area families received surplus foods. In January 142 families are certified to receive commodities and this distribution is planned for the latter part of this week.

After the registration today and tomorrow, it will be determined how many families are eligible for free surplus commodities in February, Showers said.

Blaze Levels 150-Year-Old Tenant House

High Winds Whip Fire On Reese's Mill Road

A sudden blaze of undetermined origin, whipped by high winds, destroyed a 150-year-old West Virginia landmark about nine miles south of Fort Ashby on the Reese's Mill Road yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock.

Fort Ashby, Keyser and McCoole Volunteer firemen, who responded to the alarm, said the structure was a two-story, long building of nine rooms. It was called the old Albert Umstot place and had been used as a tenant house during its entire history, they said.

The building was located just off State Route 46 on the road to Burlington and the fire, racing quickly through the wooden structure, leveled it before firemen were able to save anything. The heat became so intense at times that automobiles traveling the road about 100 feet from the house were unable to pass.

The house, owned by Ray H. Umstot on whose farm it was located, was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pownell and their 13-year-old daughter.

The Pownells escaped from the building with the father suffering only minor burns of the face and hands, firemen said. He was treated and released at Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser.

The Umstots lived several hundred yards from the tenant house on the Umstot dairy farm and called the fire departments in Fort Ashby and Keyser when they saw the razing fire.

Firemen laid 850 feet of hose in freezing temperatures to battle the blaze with water being pumped from a pond on the premises. They were able to save a nearby barn and outbuildings but the house was a total loss, they added.

Water froze on the buildings as firemen poured streams onto the blazing logs and ice hampered their work. Some trees in the area caught fire from flying sparks but little other damage was reported.

Firemen said there was no insurance on the building and no estimate of the value was given in the loss of the historic structure.

The new snow storms began in Garrett County around Oakland and Accident yesterday morning about 7 o'clock. The SRC crews were experiencing their most difficulty west of Frostburg where temperatures dropped to 18 degrees.

At Terra Alta where 17 inches of snow has fallen in the past several weeks the thermometers registered a low of 17 degrees but only three inches of new snow had been added there in the past 24 hours. Twelve inches of snow was recorded in the West Virginia mountains.

Bill Proposes State Maintain County Bridges

Two Interstate Spans Involved

Maintenance by the State Roads Commission of two interstate bridges in this county was asked in a bill introduced yesterday by the Allegany County Delegation.

The measure, introduced as House Bill 111, would authorize and direct the State Roads Commission to take over the Pinto and the Luke-Piedmont bridges.

The Delegation sponsored bill points out that the Pinto bridge is the chief means of access to the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, located on the West Virginia side of the Potomac River.

The second span was described as an important interstate artery between Luke and Piedmont.

Del. Charles M. See, chairman, said the Allegany County Delegation believes the spans, now maintained by the county, should be taken over by the state.

The bill was referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

Del. See said the delegation is of the opinion that the SRC will oppose the bill and asked all interested in its passage to indicate their stand both to the State Roads Commission and to the General Assembly.

He said the Allegany County legislators feel the state should own and maintain all interstate bridges, adding that one important reason, other than economy, is that the SRC is better equipped to deal with other states on the maintenance of the spans.

The delegation reported that the Ways and Means Committee has deferred until February 1 a hearing on HB59, which provides for compulsory semi-annual inspections of motor vehicles.

The Allegany County Delegation this morning will hold its regular weekly legislative meeting.

One of the subjects to be discussed involves HB17, which would fix the fee for examinations by deputy medical examiners between $15 and $25.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy medical examiner for Allegany County, has pointed out that no provisions are made for transportation, and asked that the higher figure apply to calls outside of Cumberland.

Besides Mrs. King and Miss Agress, other local certified secretaries include Mrs. Roger (Dorothy Bucy) Row; Mrs. Chesley V. (Clara L. Malin) Daniels; Miss Dorothy Campbell and Miss Helen Beck.

Blaze Levels 150-Year-Old Tenant House

High Winds Whip Fire On Reese's Mill Road

A sudden blaze of undetermined origin, whipped by high winds, destroyed a 150-year-old West Virginia landmark about nine miles south of Fort Ashby on the Reese's Mill Road yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock.

Fort Ashby, Keyser and McCoole Volunteer firemen, who responded to the alarm, said the structure was a two-story, long building of nine rooms. It was called the old Albert Umstot place and had been used as a tenant house during its entire history, they said.

The building was located just off State Route 46 on the road to Burlington and the fire, racing quickly through the wooden structure, leveled it before firemen were able to save anything. The heat became so intense at times that automobiles traveling the road about 100 feet from the house were unable to pass.

The house, owned by Ray H. Umstot on whose farm it was located, was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pownell and their 13-year-old daughter.

The Pownells escaped from the building with the father suffering only minor burns of the face and hands, firemen said. He was treated and released at Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser.

The Umstots lived several hundred yards from the tenant house on the Umstot dairy farm and called the fire departments in Fort Ashby and Keyser when they saw the razing fire.

Firemen laid 850 feet of hose in freezing temperatures to battle the blaze with water being pumped from a pond on the premises. They were able to save a nearby barn and outbuildings but the house was a total loss, they added.

Water froze on the buildings as firemen poured streams onto the blazing logs and ice hampered their work. Some trees in the area caught fire from flying sparks but little other damage was reported.

Firemen said there was no insurance on the building and no estimate of the value was given in the loss of the historic structure.

Bill Proposes State Maintain County Bridges

Two Interstate Spans Involved

Maintenance by the State Roads Commission of two interstate bridges in this county was asked in a bill introduced yesterday by the Allegany County Delegation.

The measure, introduced as House Bill 111, would authorize and direct the State Roads Commission to take over the Pinto and the Luke-Piedmont bridges.

The Delegation sponsored bill points out that the Pinto bridge is the chief means of access to the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, located on the West Virginia side of the Potomac River.

The second span was described as an important interstate artery between Luke and Piedmont.

Del. Charles M. See, chairman, said the Allegany County Delegation believes the spans, now maintained by the county, should be taken over by the state.

The bill was referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

Del. See said the delegation is of the opinion that the SRC will oppose the bill and asked all interested in its passage to indicate their stand both to the State Roads Commission and to the General Assembly.

He said the Allegany County legislators feel the state should own and maintain all interstate bridges, adding that one important reason, other than economy, is that the SRC is better equipped to deal with other states on the maintenance of the spans.

The delegation reported that the Ways and Means Committee has deferred until February 1 a hearing on HB59, which provides for compulsory semi-annual inspections of motor vehicles.

The Allegany County Delegation this morning will hold its regular weekly legislative meeting.

One of the subjects to be discussed involves HB17, which would fix the fee for examinations by deputy medical examiners between $15 and $25.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy medical examiner for Allegany County, has pointed out that no provisions are made for transportation, and asked that the higher figure apply to calls outside of Cumberland.

Besides Mrs. King and Miss Agress, other local certified secretaries include Mrs. Roger (Dorothy Bucy) Row; Mrs. Chesley V. (Clara L. Malin) Daniels; Miss Dorothy Campbell and Miss Helen Beck.
